Army Officer?

Green Admits Recall

'Violation' In Indochina

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green admitted under sharp opposition questioning Thursday that at least one Canadian serving in Indochina with the international truce commissions has been brought home for violating Canadian law.

Outside the Commons, a source said the case involved the acceptance of money by an army officer to smuggle narcotics into Canada. The source said that possibly other army officers are involved.

It is understood that Canadians in Viet Nam have frequently been approached with offers ranging up to $50,000 to take home with them at the end of their year's tour of duty packages of narcotics for delivery to a contact in Canada.

DECLINED TO REPLY

An army spokesman declined to reply to any questions on the matters, referring them all to the external affairs department.

The spokesman said he knew, however, that there has been no court martial in connection with any such case.

Mr. Green said in the Commons that it would "not be in the public interest to go any further."

REGIER QUESTION

He was asked by Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) whether any Canadians have been brought home from Indochina for other than normal reasons such as leave.

Mr. Regier asked whether any report has ever been issued by the government "as to why a Canadian official was murdered in this area?"

The apparent reference was to the stabbing murder of A. E. L. Cannon in Saigon, South Viet Nam, April 12, 1957. He was serving with the external affairs department and was a member of the Viet Nam truce commission.

NO REPORT

Mr. Green said: "I have no report on that particular incident."

Mr. Regier: "Have any Canadians, either from the department of national defence, been sent home for reasons other than the normal reasons of leave, furlough, etc.? If so, for

Forced to Move West, Court Told

Unauthorized Ship Invaded Target Area of Skeena

By IAN STREET

An unauthorized vessel entered the firing area in Juan de Fuca Strait while HMCS Skeena and other warships were carrying out firing exercises Jan. 29, a naval court martial was told yesterday.

Cmdr. Richard H. Leir, skipper of the Skeena, is charged with negligence and "an act to the prejudice of good order and discipline" resulting from the incident which rained shell fragments on the logging community of Clallam Bay, Wash.

He pleaded innocent to the charges.

IN FIRING AREA

The five-man court was told that on Jan. 29, during the firing exercises the federal government ship Oshawa entered the firing area and subsequently ignored a radio message to return to the safety of Jordan River.

Defence counsel Lloyd McKenzie put the circumstances of the alleged incident to witnesses in hypothetical form. But he assured the court that evidence to back up his contention fully will be entered by the defence.

SOUTHWEST CORNER

The "hypothetical incident" outlined by Mr. McKenzie stemmed from the presence of two destroyer-escorts and two frigates carrying out simultaneous surface and anti-aircraft shoots in the 10-mile wide strait.

The frigates carried out a surface shoot at the eastern end of the firing area while Skeena and her sister ship Saguenay positioned themselves in the southwest corner near the international boundary which runs down the middle of the strait.

The unauthorized presence of the Oshawa, said Mr. McKenzie, forced the Skeena to

20 Miners Dead In German Blast

HEESSEN, Germany (UPI)—A giant explosion rocked a coal mine here today and authorities feared a high casualty toll.

First reports said at least 20 miners were believed killed and many more injured in the blast.

ENTRANCE SEALED

The explosion occurred in the Sachsen mine located near this town in northwestern Germany. Fire brigades immediately sealed the entrance to the mine.

News of the disaster spread fast, and anxious relatives of the miners working below the surface quickly began crowding outside the iron gates of the mine.

SECOND DISASTER

It was the second disastrous coal mine explosion in West Germany in recent weeks. On Feb. 7 a methane gas explosion in the Luisenthal mine at Voelklinger killed 298 miners.

French Planes Intervene In Algerian Gun Battle

ALGIERS (AP)—War planes and artillery went into action on the Tunisian-Algerian frontier Thursday while French and Algerian rebel leaders met in France, striving to work out a cease-fire in the 7½-year Algerian rebellion.

Rocket - firing French bombers intervened in a roaring artillery duel between Algerian rebels and French troops on the border where thousands of cannon and mortar shells have been fired since the cease-fire negotiators met in Evian, France.

French Army headquarters confirmed the aerial action and said Thursday night "normal operational activity continues along the frontier."

The French said the artillery duel was set off by a desire of the rebel army based in Tunisia to show it is still a valid military force.

The rebels were reported to have opened up with field guns and mortars a few hours be-

Public Getting Restless

Lynch Threats Rumble As Police Hunt Blasters

NELSON (CP)—Squads of RCMP investigators worked round the clock Thursday checking out tips and new leads in the bombing of a power pylon as the partially crippled industry of the Kootenays took steps to get back to normal operations.

Police spokesmen said a provincial government offer of a $10,000-a-head reward for conviction of the power line blasters had resulted in numerous tips to the more than 100 RCMP officers working on the newest and most far-reaching acts of Kootenay terrorism.

The bombing of the 366-foot steel power pylon with three plastic wrapped charges Tuesday night, sent the tower plunging to the shores of Kootenay Lake. Its three vital power lines stretching two miles across the lake snapped, forcing power-short industry to close down or cut back operations.

The latest blast is laid by police to members of the fanatical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect. More than 80 of their membership now are under charge or already convicted—to prison terms ranging up to 28 years—for acts against the community.

It's Civil War

At a public meeting here last night residents urged government action varying from martial law to sterilization of male saboteurs.

Some 150 businessmen, housewives, students, loggers, miners and professional men agreed that civil war exists in the Kootenays and that RCMP methods to suppress violence have been taxed to the limit.

Throughout the meeting, reporters noted a feeling of bitter reprisal against the Sons.

But Mayor T. S. Shorthouse advised caution.

"None of us wants to be associated with mob rule," he said. "We want to keep our heads."

One man exploded after the discussions: "All we do is talk, talk, talk—they better get the militia in here by Saturday. Some of the boys are going to drink Saturday night and then watch out Krestova."

Drastic Measures

Krestova, a shacktown about 20 miles west of here, is the Sons' stronghold.

Ald. B. C. Affleck called for the most drastic measures against terrorism — including martial law, armed guards, criminal code changes, and sterilization.

He said war veterans should be armed with shotguns, with orders to shoot on sight at night. Around important installations he suggested burglar alarms, police dogs, barbed wire, and trip wires.

If deemed necessary by two justices of the Supreme Court of Canada, twice convicted saboteurs should be sterilized, he said.

"My methods are unconventional," Ald. Affleck said, "but nowhere in this country does there seem to be any conventional way of dealing with them."

A motion, that a state of emergency exists, and a call for the East and West Kootenay to be put under a state of emergency allowing use of

Terrorism Debate Quashed

OTTAWA (CP)—Terrorism in the Kootenays brought an unsuccessful move in the Commons Thursday for emergency debate on the need for federal assistance to British Columbia law enforcement authorities.

In a rare display of bipartisan solidarity, CCF-New Democratic Party House leader H. W. Herridge and Progressive Conservative member Murray McFarlane urged the House to suspend regular business in order to discuss an "extremely serious situation." The CCF-NDP chieftain said affairs had reached the stage of near civil war.

NOT URGENT

Mr. Herridge represents the riding of Kootenay West and Mr. McFarlane sits for Kootenay East. Mr. McFarlane seconded the Herridge motion.

Speaker Roland Michener rejected the motion on grounds its sponsors had not established that the debate subject was urgent.

LENGTHY PROBLEM

Bombings and other unlawful acts in the Kootenays have been a problem "for a long time," said Mr. Michener, though he conceded that the recent outbreak has been particularly serious.

Justice Minister Fulton, who also comes from interior British Columbia — Kamloops riding — argued against the motion.

He said that under parliamentary rules the "definite matter of urgent public importance" on which a member may move for a special debate must involve the administrative responsibility of the government.

Starvation Follows Wild Storm

NEW YORK (AP)—Tides dropped off Thursday but boiling seas continued to batter the East Coast in the aftermath of the worst recorded winter storm ever to strike the seaboard. The federal government declared the scene of multi-million-dollar destruction a major disaster area.

The action by the small business administration made the states of North Carolina, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and New York eligible for low-interest, long term loans to rebuild storm-ravaged communities.

FOOD RUSHED

Estimates of damage ran far above $100,000,000.

Meanwhile, starvation and pestilence menaced survivors amid the ruins of their homes. The agricultural department in Washington rushed surplus food supplies to hungry storm victims. Drinking water was precious in many areas.

MORE VICTIMS?

The death roll from nature's three-day rampage stood at 36. It was feared that receding flood waters might uncover more drowning victims.

Many communities that tasted the storm's destruction estimated the fury of its wind and wave exceeded that of the full-fledged hurricanes of other years. Hitherto, the hurricane, spawned in tropic seas, has been regarded as the fiercest of all storms in these latitudes.

Ships at sea continued to feel the after effects of the storm, which swept in Tuesday with snow and gales and left behind 40-foot waves and 10-foot tides.

Tides fell off during the day in many places to about three feet above normal. However, flood waters made fresh inroads, inundating parts of Philadelphia and spreading three feet of water in Annapolis, Md.

HOTELS HIT

The fury of the storm was felt as far south as Florida, where the resort area's gold coast was beset by towering tides from Palm Beach to Miami Beach. Accompanying the destructive water was unusually cold weather—a low of 31 degrees in the Miami area.

Many plush Miami Beach hotels such as the Fontainebleau, Americana and Eden Roc reported damage to cabanas, and Collins Avenue, running almost the length of the beach, was closed in six places by flood waters.

EVACUATED

Wallops Island, Va., site of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's multi-million dollar rocket facility, was evacuated and damage was reported extensive.

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—The Liberian tanker Gem, wrenched by heavy seas, broke apart in the Atlantic Thursday but in hazardous rescue operations all but one of her crew of 35 was saved.

The 501-foot tanker snapped in two 110 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Heavy Gales Hit Coasts In Europe

LONDON (Reuters)—Roaring gales, some of them churning up 30-foot waves, hit British, French and Irish coasts Thursday in the second day of severe storms.

The waves cut water and electricity supplies to the little Britanny peninsula of Quiberon.

The gales reached about 95 miles an hour as they raged along France's Atlantic and Channel coasts.

The storms also struck the southern coast of Ireland.

Doll's House Tragedy

Death and destruction hit Delaware's biggest resort, Rehoboth Beach, in the wake of a savage storm that ripped open rooms at Hotel Henlopen from ground to roof, making it look like an open-sided doll's house. He'll Choose Heavenly Who's Who

By PETER BRUTON

There's only one social register Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi wants to be entered in—and that's the "social register of Heaven."

* * *

This was Mr. Gaglardi's reply yesterday after Liberal leader Ray Perrault disclosed that the minister had spent $25 of the public's cash so that he and his wife could be listed with the Social Register of Canada.

What's more, Mr. Perrault's digging in the public accounts committee showed that Mr. Gaglardi had spent an additional $55 so he could be listed in Who's Who in Canada as well as six pounds six shillings for a copy of Burke's Peerage.

"Is that all you've got on Gaglardi?" asked Health Minister Eric Martin. "I don't care what he bought as long as it wasn't Lady Chatterley's Lover."

Waldo Skillings (SC—Victoria) charged that Mr. Perrault had been scraping the bottom of the barrel.

And NDP-CCF leader Robert Strachan told Mr. Gaglardi: "You'd have been better to spend the money on a copy of Dun and Bradstreet to check on bankrupt contractors."

Mr. Gaglardi gladly explained why the books had been bought.

"It was all my secretary's fault," he said. "She bought these things. She thought they were necessary equipment, for the whole department."

* * *

The minister added that his copy of the Social Register didn't contain his name, anyway, and he will not be subscribing again.

Out in the hallway he stopped reporters.

"The only social register I want to be in is the social register of heaven," he explained.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"THIS man came to the door (she said) and announced that he had a gift for me.

"It was a little brass lamp. But he wasn't going to give me the lamp right away. First he had to arrange a demonstration. 'A demonstration of what?' I asked, but I never could get out of him what it was he was selling.

"He said it was so complicated that it took two people to understand it. A man and his wife both had to be present at the same time.

"He wanted to know when my husband would be coming home. I kept on trying to put him off, and learn just what it was he was selling. I understand it was some sort of thing for polishing floors, but I couldn't get him to say.

"He kept on trying to arrange an appointment for a time when both my husband and I were at home.

"When IS you husband home?" he asked, getting irritated.

"'As a matter of fact I work nights and he works days,' I told him, 'so we never see one another.'

The salesman packed his case and went away shaking his head.

"'I called to him out the window—"Hey, what about my gift?" Oh, he said, I was only supposed to get that if he gave a demonstration.

"'Look,' I told him, 'you have just wasted 15 minutes of my time, and I want something to show for it. The lamp, please.'

She conned him out of the lamp and sent him away without buying anything—a true Household Heroine.

"Several people have tried to give me short change lately," said the man who calls in at the office now and then to lodge complaints and make constructive suggestions.

"A delivery man gave me $1.98 change when he should have given me $2.38. He swore it was the right amount, but I made him add it again. 'Say, you're right,' he admitted.

"Then there was a young man in a garage who returned $1.75 in change when it should have been $2.25. I pointed it out, and he made it good. But you know, he had the extra 50 cents in his hand, ready to give it to me if I objected.

"I wonder how much money he makes from people who don't notice," the visitor said.

"I don't count my change half the time," I told him. "But I did get rooked of $1 at a theatre candy stand. The woman said I had given her a $1 bill. I knew it had been a $2. I didn't argue. I was going to tell the manager later, but I decided against it."

"Mistakes can happen," the man said, "but I think there are a few people who deliberately try to twist you out of small sums of money. It mounts up by the end of the day."

As he left, I found myself jingling a handful of pennies and nickels in my pocket, and wondering how much had been taken from me by minor con men.

Mr. Green: "From time to time Canadians are brought home, but I think it would be of no benefit for me to go into that any further."

SHELLS LOBBED

French Army headquarters said the French lobbed shells into French positions along the wired, electrified frontier and on Moslem settlements grouped around them.

At least 10 persons were killed and nearly 30 have been wounded so far on the Algerian side of the frontier, the French said. They reported French counter-fire put seven rebels out of combat.

FIRING GOES ON

French headquarters said the firing continued late Thursday, but its intensity had somewhat diminished.

Areas under fire included Lacroix, Lamy, Souk Arhas and the mines of Kouif, where several hundred Moslems are employed.

Restiveness was reported also among perhaps 10,000 rebel fighters based in Morocco, on Algeria's western flank.

Their fire disrupted the electrified defence barrier, set up to block infiltration from Tunisia and 50,000 French troops were placed on the alert.

The army ministry in Paris announced 17,250 French troops, including Moslems in French military service, and 141,000 rebels were killed from the outbreak of the rebellion in 1954 to the end of 1961.

French Army wounded totalled 51,800, it said. No figures were given on rebel wounded in the announcement, the army's first public recapitulation of war losses in months.

'Please Answer Men Queries' Fine—What's the Question?

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please answer some men queries unless you are truly a women's doctor, like I think you are.—J.J.K.

That is Mr. J.J.K.'s whole letter. No question for me to answer—just an accusation that I don't answer, as he calls it, "men queries."

Well, three questions out of four in this column are from women, so that's the ratio of the answers.

I know that for every question along the line of "How can I get my wife to go to the doctor?" I receive 99 asking, "How can I get my husband to go to the doctor?" And there follows a choice of symtoms: He has a chronic cough, his stomach bothers him, he gets too tired, he's overweight, or underweight, or drinks too much, or whatever.

MANY QUESTIONS

If it's about children, their itches, their appetites, their nerves, their weight, the time at which they start to talk or walk or sit up the amount they should sleep, or do they get enough milk or protein or Vitamin D, the questions are from the mothers, not the fathers.

It isn't because fathers don't love their children as much as do mothers; it's because in our society dad brings home the bacon, repairs the back steps, shovels the coal. Mother cooks the meals, brings up the babies, sews on the buttons and darns the socks.

It's mother who worries about baby's diet and father's health. It's father who tries to pay the bills and see that the car will run.

Up to around the age of 50 or more, it's father who may develop heart trouble. Later it's father who has prostate trouble. And it's also father who says, "Quit fussing. I'm perfectly healthy. Just don't worry about it."

It's mother, in those years, who worries and frets. It's more likely that father has the ulcers. It's mother who may have breast cancer. Or cancer of the cervix, of course.

For whatever reasons, the majority of doctors are men—and the majority of nurses are women.

Wives and mothers ask questions about health, for the most part.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother, 85, has been advised by our doctor to use a uterus support. She doesn't want to try it. For months she has had periodic attacks of not being able to urinate.—O.G.

Some oldsters are quite stubborn about such things. However, if certain of the pelvic tissues have become so relaxed as to interfere with proper flow, such a uterus support frequently corrects the trouble. She should be urged to try it, at least. If only comfort is involved, it's worth it. But her health should benefit, too.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: What is your opinion of cola drinks? I've heard so many people say they are harmful, but I've never been given any conclusive proof. My daughter and I drink probably from six to 12 ounces of them every day.—F.D.B.

At least some of the cola drinks contain caffein. So does coffee. So does tea. In moderation, I see nothing harmful in any of them.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband recently was hospitalized for a liver disease. He was told to stay on a soft diet and no drinking, but now he drinks six to eight bottles of beer a day and says it will not harm him.—MRS. J.E.

Anyone who has had a liver disease should not use alcoholic drinks of any kind. It puts that much more strain on the liver, and while he may say he notices no trouble, he is steadily weakening an already damaged organ. He should be smart enough to give up alcohol, and stay on his diet, too.

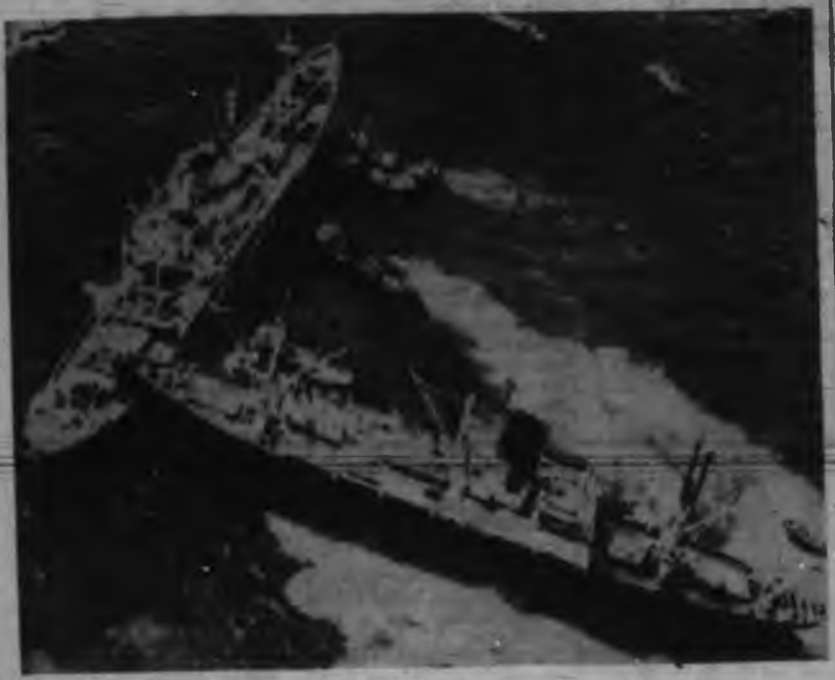
South Viet Nam War Getting Hotter



Freighters Locked

Tugs pull frantically in efforts to separate ships locked together following collision in harbor of Kobe, Japan. Aerial view shows Chinese passenger-freighter Hai Ou, her bow crunched into stern of Japanese cargo ship Tomishima Maru. There were no injuries.—(AP Photofax.)

Red Guerrillas Attack In Larger Groups

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Running battles between government forces and Communist guerrillas flared over much of the southern third of South Viet Nam Thursday.

Casualties mounted on both sides as Viet Cong guerrillas began striking hard, sometimes in units of 1,000 men, and the government struck back even harder in what was shaping up as the biggest military struggle since South Viet Nam became independent in 1954.

1,000 KILLED

Informed sources estimated 1,000 men have been killed, wounded or captured on the two sides in the last 12 days.

One U.S. helicopter was forced down by engine trouble Thursday in a guerrila region while flying supplies to a force of about 1,500 Vietnamese operating on a finger of land in the Mekong delta.

CRAFT GUARDED

Troops drew a security zone around the craft and the military command in Saigon hoped to get a spare engine to the helicopter.

The 1,500 troops, sent into the delta by landing craft and footpath to hunt down a band of guerrillas which wiped out a company of government soldiers in an ambush Tuesday, lost contact with the elusive Red fighters.

In another action, 23 guerrillas were killed in An Xuyen province near the southern tip of Viet Nam, the government reported.

Aussies Hail U.S. Pledge To Thailand

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Australian government yesterday welcomed the United States pledge to defend Thailand against Communist aggression singlehandedly if necessary.

But Asian affairs expert Sir Wilfred Hughes told the House of Representatives that Australia now should pledge to stand by the United States in defence of the pro-Western Southeast Asian nation.

NOT DEPENDENT

External Affairs Minister Sir Garfield Barwick said Australia put the same interpretation on SEATO that State Secretary Rusk did Tuesday when he said in Washington that the American obligation "does not depend upon prior agreement of all other parties to the treaty."

U.S. Aid 'in 24 Hours'

BANGKOK (AP) — Prime Minister Sarit Thanarat said yesterday the United States has told the Thailand government it can dispatch troops here "within 24 hours" in case of Communist aggression.

Church Abduction Denied

Ex-Priest Living Quietly, Privately

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A former Roman Catholic priest, centre of a $2,300,000 lawsuit against the church, is living quietly and privately in California, his lawyer said yesterday.

Lawyer Thomas O'Brien said he does not know just where Walter Ryan, the 57-year-old former priest, is living but he is "probably in northern California" and is definitely not in a monastery.

Ryan's blonde wife and mother of his four children brought suit Monday against the church in Mineola, N.Y., charging Roman Catholics had spirited the ex-priest away in 1955 and kept him prisoner in monasteries.

SECRETLY WED

Alice Ryan, 41, of Glen Head, N.Y., said they were secretly wed in Maryland Nov. 13, 1950, while Ryan was assistant pastor of the Glen Cove parish.

O'Brien said the priest came voluntarily to California in 1955 and has been here ever since, living on his $176 monthly military disability pension as a retired captain-chaplain.

WON'T HAVE HIM

"I don't think he would ever go back to her," O'Brien said. "That situation wouldn't work out. He is definitely not in a Catholic institution. They won't have him.

"He was a priest and he got married. He's out the window as far as the church is concerned."

'Havana, Si! Virginia, No!'

LONDON (UPI) — The Communist Daily Worker was the only London newspaper today to see an ideological message in the Royal College of Physician's report on smoking which attacked cigarettes but approved pipes and cigars.

It published a front page cartoon of a smiling Fidel Castro puffing on a fat cigar. It bore the legend: "Havana, Si! Virginia, No!"

Election Call

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—Sir Roy Welensky, Rhodesian federal prime minister, announced last night he will dissolve the federal Parliament and call a general election.

He said he will ask the predominantly white federal electorate "for a mandate to prevent the breakup of the federation."

Anti-U.S. Riot

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—Street mobs attacked the U.S. embassy yesterday and burned three cars including the ambassador's in widespread rioting and looting.

Marx for Troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The defence department told Senate investigators yesterday that it will launch next month a new troop indoctrination program showing "the diabolical rise of Communist totalitarianism" from Karl Marx to the Berlin wall.

Carlisle P. Runge, assistant secretary for manpower, told the Senate armed services subcommittee studying alleged "muzzling" of military officers that the program also would enlighten servicemen on the differences between democracy and communism.

U.K. Ignores Turncoat Marine

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Marines discreetly washed their hands yesterday of Andrew Condron, Britain's only turncoat in the Korean War, who is expected to return home from Communist China shortly.

Condron, listed as a deserter in 1953, was formally discharged from the marines.

"The fact is we don't want any more to do with him," government officials said.

Condron, now 31, was the only Briton captured during the Korean War who refused repatriation along with 21 Americans.

His 63-year-old father, Patrick Condron, said he had heard his son wants to return to his home in Scotland.

"I am delighted," said the father. "It was a terrible decision Andy made but I must give him credit for sticking to

'Corpse' Was All Ears

MIAMI (AP) — Bill Tanner raced to telephone police when he saw a man tuck a body into a car trunk, then get into the car and drive away.

Police flagged the car down. Sure enough, the trunk contained a body — a live one. A garage mechanic was listening for an elusive squeak while his co-worker drove around the block.

Labor Body Staff Strikes

GENEVA (AP)—The entire service staff of some 300 employees of the International Labor Organization are on strike for higher wages.

'Door Still Open'

JAKARTA (UPI) — Indonesian President Sukarno told the Netherlands yesterday "The door is still open" for a negotiated settlement of the Dutch New Guinea dispute. "Do not let one drop of blood flow," Sukarno said. "Let us solve (the issue) through peaceful means."

He added, however, that military training and mobilization would be accelerated throughout Indonesia and if a peaceful solution cannot be reached "Indonesians will do everything in their power to return West Irian (Dutch New Guinea) to the Republic of Indonesia."

The Last Straw

THE LATEST outrage in the Kootenays by the Freedomite sect of the Doukhobors, and by far the most destructive act of terrorism in a long-standing program of violence and defiance of the law, is about the last straw. There could be repercussion by residents of the area, their patience long since exhausted, in the form of vigilante action. Nor is this a danger to be ignored.

The dynamiting of the huge transmission tower, cutting off power over a wide area and throwing 1,000 men out of work and doing vast damage to the Kootenay economy, is nothing short of a disaster. Many families will suffer severely as a result of this criminal action by a sect which in spirit and behavior does not belong in Canada and never has. There is the corollary lesson here, emphasized anew, that no easy admittance to this country should be available to community blocks of persons whose whole outlook is foreign to the concepts of this nation.

For 40 years now the Doukhobors have been a thorn in the side of B.C., setting up a history of burnings and bombings, allied to a repugnant practice of public disrobing, that is without parallel elsewhere in the country. They have repaid the haven that was offered them by open defiance of constituted authority capped by the terrorist campaigns of the dissident Sons of Freedom sect.

Kindness and conciliation has been wasted on them time and again and there is understanding of the call by civic leaders of the Kootenay area for a declaration of national emergency that would embrace the use of troops to put down this cancerous sore of terrorism and invoke perhaps martial law. Certainly the apprehension of the criminals responsible for this latest and extreme act of sabotage should be pursued with the utmost vigor. There can be no peace for the long-suffering peoples of this region until these criminal fanatics are brought to book and the strictest measures enforced to keep the Doukhobors in line.

In an effort to secure information that would aid in the discovering of the culprits the government has placed a price of $10,000 on the head of each of the terrorists concerned, a reward whose magnitude bespeaks the seriousness of the situation. Mr. Bonner intimates that some evidence has been gathered and it is to be hoped this leads quickly to the arrest and punishment of these evildoers.

The matter is one that warrants the intervention of the national government, so that by its cooperation with provincial authorities an end can be put once and for all to the terrorist activities of the Freedomite sect.

Priority for Safety

CITY COUNCIL committees will be starting work soon on the preliminary perusal and trimming of departmental expenditure estimates for 1962.

They—and later the council as a whole, when the resulting budget is presented—undoubtedly will be particularly anxious this year to cut down on undertakings which can be classed, in the time-worn phrase, as "desirable but not essential." This is so because unusual expense is inevitable in the coming months in connection with various aspects of the civic centenary, and further extraordinary cost will be entailed if council remains firm in its commendable determination to begin urban renewal.

As little as Victoria taxpayers would welcome an increase in taxes, however, it is to be hoped that the aldermanic board will rank public safety no farther down the scale of necessity and desirability than it has in what might be called normal years, even though every year seems to have its peculiar exigencies.

In particular, street-lighting on a few of the main traffic arteries is strikingly in need of improvement. Heavily-travelled Cook Street, where dark-clad elderly pedestrians and lightless bicycles seem to abound in the shadows, probably heads this list. Not much less in need of better lighting are Quadra and Burnside and Fort east of the Oak Bay Junction, for example.

This may be a year when a temporary cutback in road and sewer work, while undesirable, could be justified, although one would not want to see the continuing program of maintenance and improvement destroyed.

Safety, however, should have a high degree of priority; further installation of adequate lighting this year should be regarded as essential.

Vehicle Testing

ATTORNEY-GENERAL Robert Bonner says the British Columbia government is considering a program of motor vehicle inspection for the whole province. This display of interest at least can be regarded as recognition of the existence of a need, and as acceptance of responsibility.

As such it will no doubt be welcomed by the B.C. Automobile Association, which has pressed the government to set up mandatory and regular vehicle-testing throughout the province, and municipalities that from time to time have considered establishing their own testing stations but have been discouraged by the cost and, reasonably, unwilling to load this cost on their local taxpayers.

The desirability and importance of compulsory checks on the condition of cars and trucks is evident. Vancouver's examination system is said to have reduced accidents due to mechanical failure or deficiency from seven per cent to one per cent of the total number of mishaps.

Smaller municipalities including Victoria cannot rightly be blamed, however, for thinking the responsibility for testing lies with the provincial government, which taxes the province's motorists and which has the power to ensure that all vehicles using the roads and highways are subjected to regular examination.

That this responsibility now appears to have been accepted by the government is commendable. It is regrettable, however, that Mr. Bonner is unable to say more at this time than that a vehicle inspection program is being "considered," and that if it comes at all it will not come this year. A province that can spend so much for highways ought to be able to afford a system of testing the vehicles that use them.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

BY TOM TAYLOR

I SEE that our MLAs are split over the question of censorship of books and plays. No wonder. It is all a matter of taste, as the old farm lady said when she kissed her cow. So many things are. But times change and so do tastes. That Shakespeare could be indicted if he lived today is no criterion. He doesn't live today and this isn't the Shakespearean age. Thank goodness, too. Before, during and for long after his time little boys could be imprisoned to man's toil, a man could lose his tongue for speaking out of turn, if not indeed his head, and if he stole a loaf of bread he would be hung.

Shakespeare would be affronted of course were he to be likened to the authors of the current stacks on bookstands. And with fine reason. He was an artist and the good he did, literarilly speaking far outlasted the blemishes MLAs find in him. He phrased that sentiment himself, albeit not thinking about the written word. But each age has its own idioms, habits and behaviors. Ours is different from his.

Since we don't put people in the stocks at the slightest excuse similarly our approach to bawdiness has altered.

Censorship at best or worse is a ticklish proposition, one man's meat being another's distaste. Children, though, weren't subject in his day to the impact of Shakespeare as are children to salacious movies and paperbacks nowadays. And he wasn't so crude, anyway. He used majestic language to clothe his thoughts, be they strait-laced or the opposite. This is the nub, and when a famous book is in the dock—a la Lady Chatterly, for instance—the aesthetes bring out their literary guns.

* * *

All words by a master, allegedly, are sacred. To whom? Four-letter words no matter their clarity—or vulgarity—scarcely enhance artistic expression. They indicate a paucity of creative intelligence. And more. They make clear as many modern works do that they are written solely to shock and create hubbub—and so sell more copies. Shakespeare said his pieces because they were customary and natural to his era.

No MLA suggested the poet should be banned from B.C. schoolrooms, I notice, proof enough he is harmless. In truth I fancy a great many things supposed to damage childish minds pass wholly over their heads. It is the adults who do most of the worrying—in some cases the gloating too. And anyway by the time young people leave school they have had enough of Shakespeare, more's the pity. If they think of him at all probably it is as a bore.

Nevertheless no one should object to some attempt to limit the books and plays that offend the kind of morality we like to think is best. All manner of other controls compel us to obedience in the name of society. Freedom is relative. And those who like to wallow will always be able to do so in any case. Among books, too, for the net could not be close-meshed.

Chaucer was lined up alongside Shakespeare, which should have given MLAs an idea. Chaucer is hard to read; worse than Burns to alien eyes and ears. Because like Shakespeare he was of his own vintage and not of 1962. But if paperback publishers and movie producers were compelled to tell their stories in the language of Shakespeare or Chaucer that would whiten the literary scene like snow. Hardly a soul would ever read them.

And if these two illustrious exponents of the arts are to be dragged into the censorship discussion that seems a fair enough quid pro quo.

Paradox in Britain

Dead-Drunk Law

By CASSANDRA, from London

THE law is acting as if it is dead-drunk and not fit to be in charge of the administration of justice.

Henry Crichton pleaded guilty at the Surrey Quarter Sessions to being under the influence of drink or drugs when in charge of, but not driving, his car.

He was nowhere near his car when they copped him. He had parked it and had been in bed for about 40 minutes before the police arrived. He opened the door in his night clothes and said: "Come in. I am a bit tight. Have a drink of beer."

The deputy chairman of the Bench said to Crichton that he was technically in charge of the car, but "We put out of our minds quite firmly any temptation to draw the inference that you drove the car at a time when you were unfit to drive."

That must have been a very neat judicial exercise indeed.

* * *

If Henry Crichton thinks he got a rough deal, Ralph Pearce, of Nottingham, got a very smooth one.

He was very drunk when the law caught up. He was found lying over the bonnet of his car at 4 o'clock in the morning. The ignition had been switched on, the battery was nearly flat, and his false teeth were under the driver's seat.

At the Sessions Appeals it was held that there was no likelihood of his being able to start the car and he was thus entitled to be acquitted of being drunk in charge of the vehicle.

* * *

In the one case, the driver was hauled out of bed when intoxicated and convicted of being under the influence while in charge.

In the other, the driver, discovered collapsed over his car, had drunk his way into such a deep stupor that he became innocent in the eyes of the law.

If you drink don't drive. Or, according to the latest legislative phenomenon, drink so much that you are incapable of driving and are thus not guilty in the eyes of the law.

Dates, Kings

I have been trying my hand at a history examination paper set for pupils of about 13.

With luck I might have got 35 marks out of a 100.

What interested me is that the obsession that examiners had with dates, battles and kings and queens 35 years ago still goes on in exactly the same way today.

The first question in the paper reads:

"What famous incident do you connect with the following days: (a) October 21st? (b) July 14th? (c) June 1st? (d) August 4th? (e) St. Crispin's day?"

Now, I didn't know what happened on October 21st. Or what they wanted you to THINK happened on October 21st. Was it the anniversary of the Battle of Trafalgar in 1805; the inauguration of the BBC regional services in 1929; or the death of Julius Caesar Saciger in 1558?

And what the devil does it matter?

Abide With Me

Why were the examiners worrying themselves about anniversaries on the 1st of June? Was it the birthday in 1793 of the chap who wrote "Abide With Me"; the death of Hugh Walpole in 1941—or the loss of the submarine Thetis in 1939?

The next question is again hag-ridden by dates aggravated by undue importance attached to kings and queens.

"Give the year in which the following occurred: (a) the abdication of Edward VIII; (b) the murder of George, Duke of Clarence; (c) the execution of Lady Jane Grey; (d) the birth of Queen Elizabeth II; (e) the death of Julius Caesar."

It doesn't matter twopence when Edward VIII abdicated or when our Queen was born.

What does matter is that history—which is second only to English as the most important subject we can teach our sons and daughters — should still largely be confined to the arid myth of "1066 and all That."

Precise dates don't matter; decades are immaterial, but centuries probably do count.

Battlefields don't matter—pre-nuclear stuff I mean—but causes do.

Kings and queens are inconsequential figureheads.

Come to Life

Up to and including the Middle Ages, when there was no press, no radio and television, the ordinary Briton had no real idea of what was going on around him in these islands. But great and significant things were afoot. The story of our predecessors, how they lived, and what they thought, is a precious hidden tale.

Let our children hear about these things.

Washington Calling

The Pressures on the President

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHETHER the decision was inevitable from the first moment that the Soviet Union broke the nuclear moratorium and began its series of massive tests is a debate for history.

However slender it may seem in view of the struggle that has gone on in recent weeks, the president feels that he has made one last offer. Into this he has tried to put the weight of his conviction, his deep-seated aversion to restarting what he called the deadly competition.

Nearly six months have passed since the Soviets abruptly broke the moratorium and launched the series that included the explosion of a device of at least 57 megatons—the equivalent of 57,000,000 tons of TNT—far larger than anything ever undertaken before. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that with each passing day the pressure on the president has increased, coming from the department of defence, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

* * *

On the political side the Republicans were increasingly pressing the issue as a point of attack on President Kennedy and his administration. Although it was largely lost in the excitement over the achievement of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen, minority leader, and House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck devoted considerable time on their "Ev and Charley" show to a demand that the president announce immediately that testing in the atmosphere was to be resumed.

It must also be said that while all this pressure was building up the president has clearly been anxious to get from Moscow some sign of a genuine willingness to consider a new approach to a test agreement. That would necessarily include verification and inspection.

Twice in 10 days the Soviet Union slammed this door with a vehemence that seemed to foreclose any negotiation which would include the safeguards essential to American acceptance of a nuclear agreement or eventually a treaty.

The president's closest advisers, including even some who have argued for a delay in reaching a testing decision, felt that this left him in a more or less defenceless position. Whether it is rationalization after the event or not, they had been convinced that some willingness to yield on the part of the Soviets was essential to further delay if only in public acceptance of a postponement.

* * *

How much of the decision was political, using the word in the broadest international as well as national sense, and how much military no one on the outside can say. The military threat was that with another unmonitored moratorium, which in any event the president had said he could not accept, the Soviets would prepare in secret for another lengthy test series. A second series could put them in the lead with obvious political as well as military consequences at home and abroad.

As to the actual military gains from nuclear testing at this stage of development on both sides of the divide, one of the few informed statements has come from Dr. Hans A. Bethe, professor of physics at Cornell University and head of a committee of scientists named by the president to evaluate the Russian test series. In a lecture at Cornell on January 5 Bethe said:

"There is not much difference between 100 and 10 megatons from the military point of view. Ten megatons is enough to destroy nearly any big city. A simple rule is 10 megatons, 10 miles of destructive radius. Placed at the south end of Central Park this will cover nearly all of New York City. We have had 10 megatons since 1954, they since 1958. We have 500 B-52s to deliver these, and 1,000 B-47s. The Russians have smaller numbers but still enough to destroy us many times over.

"Nothing has been fundamentally changed by the Russian tests, except that it has become somewhat easier for them; nothing fundamental is likely to be changed by any amount of future nuclear testing."

* * *

Bethe said that perfecting a defence system with an anti-missile missile is considered all but impossible. This is the view, when they speak privately, of most scientific-military experts. Yet, Soviet military figures have boasted repeatedly that they have solved the problem of the anti-missile missile and these boasts have contributed to the pressure on the president coming from both the politicians and the military-nuclear specialists.

In the end Bethe found it "reasonable" that the United States should test those designs developed in the laboratory and particularly those which fit into our stategic plans, such as the warheads for Minuteman and Polaris. To the hardy few who had held out for a further delay this seemed contrary to all his argument. But it was part of the atmosphere of fatalism that pushed the president—reluctantly but nonetheless relentlessly—in one direction.

The Packsack

Perilous Place

By GREGORY CLARK

AT the theatre the other night, out in the lobby between the acts, I ran into a young fellow I had not seen for two or three years, and I was shocked to find him sadly changed. He used to be a dashing, extremely well-dressed sort of cavalier type, a sport car driver, a first-nighter, a ringside seater, the kind you see head waiters escorting to reserved tables.

And here he was looking seedy. His eyes seemed larger than formerly, as he stared about eagerly. He was too hearty. I got the idea that he had some newly revealed illness and it was haunting him.

Yesterday, I happened to mention him to a mutual acquaintance, and referred to the change that had impressed me.

"Oh, haven't you heard?" said he. "He's lost his job, and can't get another anywhere nearly as good. He made the mistake of becoming the boss' favorite. Then the boss died. And the first thing the successor to the late boss did was fire the former pet."

There is peril in being too close to the throne.

A Nation Long Ago

Peruvian Indians' Lost Legacy

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON, from London

PERU is unique among South American countries in having been a nation long before the arrival of the Spaniards in the 16th century. Even Aztec Mexico, in central America, was not in quite the same category.

This sense of antiquity pervades Peru, in a not always healthy sense. The tourist may be shown the majestic pre-Inca ruins of Macchu Pichu, high in the forbidding Andes, or the great stone walls of Cuzco, the former capital of the Inca empire, and feel that this is the picturesque past, having as little to do with the present as the Egyptian pyramids have to do with President Nasser.

But this would be a mistaken impression. Of Peru's ten million people today, more than three-quarters are so-called Indians, descendants of the inhabitants of the great Inca empire of Huantinsuyu, which stretched from Pasto in modern Colombia to Tucuman in northern Argentina, linked by the great roads which rival those of the Romans in Europe, and which form the basis of Peru's present road building program.

* * *

The civilization of the Incas had its limitations. The ancient Peruvians never evolved an alphabet, and strangely for a nation whose symbol was a circle (representing the sun), never discovered the use of the wheel. All power was vested in the hereditary ruler — though he was generally benevolent. But no one went hungry, there was social security from the cradle to the grave, a strict code of justice was enforced, and the people of the highly efficient empire were probably as happy as any in the world. Its collapse was due to no inherent defect, but to the possession by the Spaniards of horses, guns and a duplicity alien to the Incas.

This is not mere ancient history. For the Peruvian Indians today, though most bitterly poor and largely illiterate, are not ignorant of the glories of their former state (indeed they may tend to exaggerate them), and after four centuries' virtual serfdom under the Spaniards and their settler descendants, are becoming restive and demanding a share in their patrimony.

* * *

Most of them live in the upland Andean valleys, at eight or nine thousand feet, by primitive agriculture, with most of the proceeds going to criollo (white) landlords.

In one or two places pilot community schemes have been started under which they can improve their lot, but in effect these can only be operated successfully where landlords are prepared to co-operate—or at least to refrain from obstructing.

And, anyway, it is too late. Those Indians who can manage to pay off their accumulated debts (with which they are often born), leave the bleak and hopeless highlands and head for the coast. Thousands a year pour out of Desamparados Station in the stately capital of Lima, "thrice crowned city of the viceroys," with their little bundles and their old-fashioned clothes; lost amid the traffic and the neon signs and the alien seeming people.

Once there, they see little of the splendors of the viceregal metropolis — they move to shacks around the outskirts, even to the municipal rubbish dump. There are no homes for them, there is no room in the schools, hospital facilities are overstrained, and the city budget cannot stand the strain. There are many rich Peruvians, but they do not appear to care.

In a multi-racial capital where most people have Indian blood, and where a major avenue is named after Manco Capac, the founder of the Inca Empire, these people meet no racial discrimination as such. But their poverty, their ignorance, their lack of skills, their unavoidable uncleanliness, combine to debar them from jobs. Even their language is against them, for while Peru's official tongue is Spanish, most Indians still speak Quechua, the dialect of Cuzco which was the lingua franca of the Inca Empire.

The present Peruvian government is belatedly starting on schemes to develop the country, to build up industries in the interior, to educate the Indians in modern living, but the situation needs far more radical treatment than it has yet received.

Politically, the only party truly to espouse the Indian cause has been APRA (the American Popular Revolutionary Alliance). A non-Communist but Marxist-influenced organization, it is led by a white Peruvian, educated at Oxford and London as well as in Peru—Haya de la Torre, known to his followers by his Christian names, Victor Raul. For decades, APRA was bitterly persecuted by right-wing governments: on one occasion 6,000 "Apristas" were executed in the northern desert amid the prehistoric ruins of Chan-Chan.

Now, APRA has been recognized and will contest this year's elections. If it wins, if it is allowed to take office, if it shows more judgment than in its brief period of power in the 1940s, if the mass of Peruvians can maintain their incredible patience a little longer, the country may awake after four centuries of injustice and misery. If not, the ensuing chaos can please only the Communists, whose idea of dealing with Peru is to tear the place apart and start from scratch.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 300 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

I was in the police service in England for 37 years, so I think I know something about helmets. One gets used to them, but they are decidedly not comfortable to wear. In warm weather particularly they make a deep ridge across the forehead, impeding circulation, and are blamed for premature baldness.

Before one gets used to wearing them one does not allow for sufficient clearance in low doorways, etc., and one can get one's head nearly wrenched off when hurrying to answer an emergency call. Before you learn that you cannot get into a low-built modern car with one on, you are likely to cram it down over your face, leaving your legs dangling, or so it seems.

A helmet looks incongruous on a pistol-packing constable, and you cannot do without pistols in Canada where you have so many criminals, especially from below the border, who would cheerfully shoot down unarmed policemen. I do not like helmets on English police now that they wear collars and ties, but a helmet has become a sort of symbol there, and a bobby useful for tourist folders, so I expect it will remain.

You have your own special problems and way of life here, so why not just be Canadians? If you must treat practical police work as secondary to the tourist business, why not put your policemen in busbies or bearskins like the Foot Guards? That really would cause a rush to Victoria, besides being a godsend to cartoonists and writers.

Unkind Reference

I note with interest your recent item referring to me as an outsider, when I announced my intention to seek the Liberal nomination for Victoria . . .

For one such as myself who has through family or direct connection been associated with Victoria for almost 25 years, this seems a very unkind reference.

Victoria has been home to me while I attended a portion of my public schooling, University of British Columbia, when I enlisted in the armed services and while serving in the RCAF and after discharge when I completed my professional training. I have always considered Victoria home even though I have been absent from time to time. It is not my good fortune to be a resident of Victoria at the present time, a situation I hope to rectify in the near future . . .

I trust that the representative for Victoria whomsoever he or she may be will not be so narrow as to call another, outsider . . . Let us as Canadians not be parochially minded, thinking only of those who belong to our little group, but instead represent the greater good for all as well as Victoria and the insiders.

Prestige Was Harmed

No matter what our religious beliefs, political affiliations, or racial backgrounds are, there are still some things that are held sacred to the hearts of all. In the picture recently shown in this city, Whistle Down the Wind, exactly the opposite was presented, and I feel that as a citizen of this fair land I would be very remiss in my duty if I did not raise my voice in protest at this kind of entertainment.

I cannot help but feel that irreparable damage to the prestige of British films has been wrought by this travesty.

Social Scientist

Your correspondent Mr. Wyatt suggests that Jesus knew nothing of science. Surely He was the greatest social scientist of all time.

He said that man should comprehend the physical world seek God (truth) and understand his neighbors.

He was clearly scientifically orientated in His beliefs as indicated by His recognizing the physical laws that inhibited the good intentions of Judas and Peter and He forgave His executioners for the same reason.

Impaired, Rules Magistrate

Medical Evidence Conflicts at Trial

A woman was found guilty yesterday of impaired driving, despite sharply conflicting medical testimony presented in magistrate's court by both prosecution and defence.

Dr. E. L. McNiven, who administered sobriety test to Mrs. Lauretta Woolston, 517 Langford, at the request of police, testified that the woman exhibited all of the symptoms of impairment.

"Her speech was slurred, she smelled strongly of alcohol and her pupils were dilated," Dr. McNiven said.

Dr. G. A. May, Mrs. Woolston's physician, was called by the defence. He said he had examined the accused on the night in question, had noted that some liquor had been consumed, but testified that she was not impaired.

"Mrs. Woolston had consulted me a few days earlier and at that time she had complained of dizziness. Her speech is slurred normally. When I examined her at the police station, her pupils were normal in size and she did not appear to be intoxicated."

The Crown paraded five police witnesses and two civilian observers to bolster its medical testimony.

Magistrate William Ostler ruled that impairment had been shown beyond reasonable doubt.

Salesman Declares:

Stamp Scheme Aids Small Merchants

A Vancouver printing salesman who says he has distributed a form of trading stamps in as many as 2,200 stores for 12 years told the legislature's trading stamp committee yesterday the scheme is an aid to small businessmen.

The salesman was identified as Carl Neumetzler of Cascade Supply, which submitted one of four briefs heard yesterday by the committee studying trading stamp promotion schemes in retail merchandising.

FOR 12 YEARS

The brief said Cascade Supply is a discount stamp firm that has operated in Western Canada generally and in B.C. in particular for 12 years.

It said Mr. Neumetzler has cleared the legality of the operation with both the attorney - general's department here and with justice department authorities in Ottawa.

"Since the confusion and publicity over trading stamps his business volume has dropped considerably," the brief said, "but he still maintains approximately 300 customers in B.C. today."

The brief described as fallacies the contentions that trading or discount stamp promotions hurt small merchants and that these schemes, when supplied to customers by small merchants, necessarily increase the price of goods.

SMALL MERCHANT

Mr. Neumetzler's system supplies the small merchant with stamps and books and his firm's profit is entirely from the printing sale commission.

Gerald Boultas, appearing for Cascade Supply, said the company fears that any legislation to outlaw trading stamps, while it may be aimed largely at the type of schemes being used by large food outlets, would almost surely ban the system Cascade employs.

German Ambassador Explains Dilemma

Official recognition of Communist East Germany would not solve "the German problem," Dr. Herbert Siegfried, German ambassador to Canada, told Victoria Rotarians Thursday.

"It would, on the contrary, encourage more Soviet pressure on Berlin and, in the long run, on West Germany, and cause the Western position in Europe to deteriorate fatally."

HITLER'S CRIMES

Germany has willingly accepted responsibility for the war and for Hitler's crimes, the ambassador said.

"A fair judgment, however, must also take into consideration that German history goes back 1,200 years and that dictatorship lasted no longer than 12 years."

CHIEF TROUBLES

Germany's chief troubles were her sense of being hemmed in by pressure from both east and west, and the fact that—divided into a number of states she came late to nationhood.

Through history Germany had often been a battleground and an object of aggression.

LACKS SUPPORT

"Many people believe that the all-German desire for reunification is an unrealistic dream . . . but . . . those people overlook the reality that the regime which they would recognize, completely lacks public support.

"The striving for unity is equally a striving for the restoration of the basic human rights in all Germany, a goal for which the Allied forces fought in the Second World War.

30,000 FLED

Thirty thousand refugees fled East Germany last July and 40,000 in August, before the Communists sealed the escape route with the Berlin wall.

Total number of refugees in 12 years was 3,500,000—20 per cent of the East German population.

NO BETTER PROOF

"There could be no better proof of the fact that the people have not been converted to communism . . ."

Twenty-two Soviet divisions stand guard over the remaining East German citizens.

"There is an old saying in Germany . . . that "He who has Berlin has Germany, and he who has Germany has Europe."

"Therefore, those who think that Berlin is not worth any risk do not understand that the risk is not for Berlin or for Germany, but for the freedom of Europe and in the interest of the free world.

"It is natural that such a risk causes anxiety. But anxiety exists on both sides. This circumstance, the existing balance of the deterrent and the universal desire for peace, make war unlikely.

"The aggression which we have to face lies much more in the field of diplomacy and propaganda. Our only adequate protection is to react similarly and in full solidarity."

OWES MUCH

Germany owes much to the forgiving Western nations who helped her to rebuild, Dr. Siegfried said.

Exactly the opposite happened after 1918, when Germany's rejection and banishment from the conference table helped create the mood for the rise of Hitler.

FOUND PLACE

This time, Germany had found her place with the western nations. But if support were withdrawn, she could be "overwhelmed by eastern aggression within a couple of days."

"Today, democracy in Germany is based on the lessons learned from the disastrous experience of Nazism, on horror of communist dictatorship, on economic stability . . . and on the existence of a democratic opposition . . ."

SOVIET AIMS

Soviet aims, he believed, were to gain influence over all Germany and destroy NATO.

"I know the widespread opinion that Germany . . . deserves punishment for having tolerated Hitler. . . . I do not question the viewpoint of punishment, provided that it does not go so far as permanent discrimination or even enslavement."

Seventeen million Germans had been expelled from their eastern homes. Twenty-four per cent of pre-war territories were under Polish and Russian control. Another 24 per cent was Communist East Germany.

After Vienna Trouble

City Girl Ice-Skater Off to Join Paris Show

Lawsuit in Vienna of a Victoria girl and her Vancouver friend against an Austrian skating show for withholding salary and breach of contract has been adjourned to July 12.

Meanwhile the two girls, Maralee Rutley, 19, of Victoria, and Dolina Stevenson, 18, of Vancouver, are happily on their way to Paris to join the American ice show Holiday on Ice, where they have been assured of a welcome by the show's manager, William Stine.

WITHHELD PAY

The two girls were stranded in Vienna when the Vienna Ice Revue with which they had signed a contract withheld their pay. They were befriended by a British journalist in that city, Ritchie McEwen, who sent word of the new developments.

Adjournment of the suit to July 12 was made at request of the Vienna Ice Revue.

Mr. McEwen's dispatch compares conditions faced by the girls with the Vienna show and with Holiday on Ice.

$5 A DAY

The latter pays each girl $5 a day while training; the ice revue offered a lump sum of $46 for 37 days of training; Holiday on Ice will pay each a regular weekly wage of $65 or more; the Vienna rate was $3 gross per performance, and nothing if unable to skate through injury or illness.

In addition, the Holiday on Ice show will be less exhausting, with only six costume changes in a 2½-hour show, where there were 13 in the Vienna show.

Power Suit Gains

VANCOUVER (CP) — The government-owned B.C. Electric Co. yesterday lost another round in its continuing battle against the B.C. Power Corporation, former owner of the giant utility firm.

Chief Justice A. C. DesBrisay in supreme court denied a stay of proceedings sought by the BCE on a previous order of Mr. Justice Arthur Lord which required the company to make books and documents available to the B.C. Power Corporation.

The Power Corporation wants the books to justify its demands that shareholders of the formerly privately-owned BCE did not receive fair compensation from the B.C. government at the time of the takeover.

The BCE appeal against the order is scheduled for hearing next Wednesday.

U.K. Troops to Train With Canadian Army

OTTAWA (CP) — British troops will train in Canada again this summer and next winter, Defence Minister Harkness announced in the Commons Thursday. The 1st battalion of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers will train with the Canadian Army this summer at a base still to be selected, he said. Mr. Harkness said an artillery battery and a parachute company will come to Canada to train under winter conditions late this year and early in 1963.

As early as 1794 the Nova Scotia government adopted an act for the preservation of grouse and black ducks.

MOTORISTS IN THE KNOW RIDE ON DOMINION ROYAL TIRES

Mr. Hal Cotton hockey scout. Has keen eye for talent. Combs the country for players with the master touch. Needs a car that will stand up to 25,000 miles each year. He is a man who must have tires with "extra" performance.

The Master Touch

You can tell a master of the game by the way he performs when the heat's on. "So-so" players wilt under pressure.

Same with tires. When the heat's on during hours of high-speed driving, Low Profile Dominion Royal Masters run cooler . . . last longer because they flex to a lesser degree.

You enjoy greater stability, easier steering. Premium quality Dominion Royal Masters give you premium mileage, traction and braking power. And elegant styling gives your car a "Gran Turismo" flair.

If your business or pleasure calls for extra long mileage or if you just want the safest, best looking tire you can buy—don't settle for less . . . give your car the "master touch" . . . buy

Prices Rocket Near Close

NEW YORK (AP)—Helped along by some bullish news and a renewal of investment buying, the stock market made its best advance of 1962.

Steels were stellar performers as industrials moved ahead. Utilities made substantial gains and rails moved up a bit on balance.

Steels were bought, brokers said, in response to published estimates that 500,000 tons of steel will be needed to build a new oil pipe line from Texas to New York.

Early in the day, Ford Motor continued under selling pressure due to the news the Ford Foundation plans to make public offering of 2,250,000 shares of Ford stock.

A court decision favorable to pay television helped companies directly involved, namely, Zenith, up 4⅛, General Tire, up 2⅝, and Paramount Pictures, up 1.

Steels Lead Way

TORONTO (CP) — A late-afternoon rally in industrials boosted that section of the stock market to the upside. All other sections closed lower.

Steel Company of Canada surged late in the day to show a gain of ¾ at 85½—its highest price this year. Other steels showed strength, with Algoma up ⅛ and Atlas ½.

Canada Malting rose 1½ to a 1962 high of 77½ and Canada Permanent Mortgage climbed to a new high of 84.

Motors were hit by profit-taking as Ford of Canada fell 3 to 153 and Goodyear Tire 5 to 150.

Among western oils, Hudson's Bay and Home B each fell ⅛, while Calgary and Edmonton gained ⅛.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat and feed grain futures held in a steady to firm range. Advances ran to major fractions in spots.

Trade was moderately active as commercial demand for March wheat pulled in a fairly good volume of short covering for the rather scant offerings.

'Young Blood' Slate For Cariboo Quartz

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A new slate of directors for Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Co. Ltd. is being put up for election at the forthcoming annual general meeting of the company on April 11.

It includes well-known B.C. mining and business personalities, along with one of the members of the present Cariboo board, J. Royden Morris.

Those seeking election are H. H. "Spud" Huestis and John A. McLallen, president and chairman respectively of Bethlehem Copper and directors of other mining companies; A. M. Bell-Irving of Canada Iron Foundries and a Vancouver alderman; Arthur O. Hall, geologist and engineer; Gordon Morris of Perini Pacific Ltd., and Gordon Sharpe, former executive of Crown Zellerbach.

In seeking the support of shareholders for the change, Mr. Morris points out that Dr. Burnett, president of the company, is now 92 years of age and O. H. Sollbakke, one of the founders of the company, is nearly 80 and in poor health.

"I am asking the shareholders to put the management in the hands of a younger group of mining and business men," says Mr. Morris in a letter to shareholders, "The mine is now ready to be developed calculated to greatly increase production and profits."

Cariboo Gold Quartz is one of B.C.'s older mines. It was incorporated in 1927 and started production in 1933. Since then it has milled more than 2,000,000 tons of ore with an average recovery of about $14 a ton. It has not paid a dividend since 1942.

BANK RATE CUT

Britain yesterday cut its bank rate by half a point to 5½ per cent and so further eased the tight money situation made necessary by last July's monetary crisis.

The drop in the rate caused no great excitement on the London Stock Market as the move had been expected.

Last July, because of a flight from the pound and weakening of sterling in world money markets, the Bank of England had to raise the bank rate to 7 per cent.

This had the effect of bringing new money into Britain and the situation had improved by November to allow the bank rate to be cut then to 6 per cent.

The new reduction was made possible by recent strength in sterling and increase of Britain's gold and dollar reserves.

HEANEY ON BOARD

W. G. Heaney, head of Heaney Cartage and Storage Ltd. of Victoria was elected to the board of Allied Van Lines Ltd. at their annual meeting in Toronto this week.

* * *

IN CANADA TOO

Easier money was also the order of the day in Canada yesterday when the Bank of Canada reduced the rediscount rate from 3.46 per cent to 3.33 per cent.

* * *

Sweeping Support Bid

The drop of .13 per cent broke a two-week rising trend, which had taken the rediscount rate to its highest level since last May.

TERRORISM HITS STOCKS

Terrorism in the Kootenays had its reaction in the stock markets yesterday when shares of Consolidated Mining and Smelting and Canadian Pacific Railway lost up to half a point each.

The destruction of the power line over Kootenay Lake will have a severe effect on Consolidated Mining and Smelting operations until repairs can be effected in several months time, and this is bound to affect CMS's earnings for 1962. Canadian Pacific Railway is also affected as it holds over 50 per cent of CMS shares.

SAME OLD STUFF

The new British report on smoking and lung cancer is classed as "merely another review of old statistical data," and does not "offer any new scientific findings, according to the president of a leading Canadian tobacco firm.

Edward C. Wood president of Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, said the report should not form the basis for advocating campaigns by the U.K. government against smoking or for unfair regulations and restrictions against the tobacco industry.

Oil Control Automated

CALGARY (CP)—An automatic system, largest of its kind in the world, will take over control of oil production in Alberta's Pembina field later this year, Mobil Oil of Canada Limited announced Tuesday.

The new system will automatically carry crude oil liquids from wellhead to pipeline, testing, treating and measuring on the way. The unit will be able to handle 30,000 barrels of oil daily from 466 wells.

Volume Declines

VANCOUVER — Volume was lighter than in recent sessions, but mining prices held firm with some advances showing in Caribou Gold, Mt. Washington, Western Mines, Peel and Cowichan.

Canadian Breweries and Massey Ferguson were strong among industrials but MacMillan eased a fraction. Oils were slightly lower.

Refugees from Terror Spawned B.C. Terror

'Godless' Laws Send Sect Amok

Among Western Canada's 20,000 Doukhobors, a mere 3,000-odd members of the fanatic Sons of Freedom sect are responsible for terrorist tactics in British Columbia.

The remainder are hard-working, law-abiding Canadians and first-class farmers.

Canada's Doukhobors came to this country around the turn of the century after persecution and a "death march" at the hands of the Russian czars.

MAJOR SPLIT

They settled first at Blaine Lake, Sask., where they took up homesteads and tried to re-adjust to their new country.

Their first real brush with the law and the first major split in their ranks occurred when the time came to file for title to the land they had homesteaded.

Peter Veregin, their leader, counselled them to continue their communal form of life by filing for title as a body. This was contrary to the Land Act and thousands of their acres reverted to the Crown as a result.

LED WEST TO B.C.

Those who complied with the act and field as individuals retained their land but were branded "godless" by those who did not.

The landless ones were led west by Veregin and many settled with him in the southeast Kootenays where he bought land for a new commune. The community built its own sawmill, planted and harvested crops, bought a Nelson jam factory and greatly prospered.

By 1912 there were probably more than 5,000 Doukhobors in the province.

LIVING LIKE CZAR

Veregin then incorporated the commune into a federal company capitalized at $1,000,000 and with close to $3,000,000 worth of assets. All stock was held by the leader and 13 elders.

Soon the leader of a band which emigrated to escape the czars was living like one.

Then came the first of the long series of explosions — a time bomb took Veregin's life, and along with it the lives of eight others who were riding in a CPR daycoach.

His son, Peter Petrovitch Veregin, arrived from Russia in 1927 and continued the first leader's excesses. He died in 1939.

* * *

With the depression of the 1930s came bankruptcy for Veregin's company and an insurance company foreclosed a mortgage on its lands. The Sons of Freedom were expelled from the Doukhobor community.

The B.C. government came to the rescue to the tune of $207,000 so the Doukhobors would not be evicted, and what was intended as temporary help became permanent.

VIOLENT RESPONSE

Efforts to collect the money brought violent demonstrations and the embers of fanaticism which burned through the regimes of the Veregins burst, literally, into flames.

Resentment was expressed in the burning of homes, nude parades in public and sporadic explosions.

While most Doukhobors merged with the surrounding community the fanatic Sons of Freedom went their own way, burning, blasting and peeling off their clothes.

Their grounds for public demonstrations are legion:

- They are militant pacifists.
- They believed British Columbia schools trespass upon their pacifistic beliefs by teaching history.
- They refused to submit to the Public Schools Act.
- They wouldn't register deaths, births or marriages.

One woman who burned down her own home told police she did it simply because she was opposed to the atomic bomb.

"I did it as a protest," she said.

In terms of property damage and expanded law enforcement the Sons of Freedom are said to have cost B.C. close to $20,000,000.

move still farther west to ensure the government vessel didn't come within range of the warship's guns.

"Is it normal procedure for merchant traffic to ignore orders contained in the department of transport notice to mariners to stay clear of firing areas during gunnery exercises?" Mr. McKenzie asked the first defence witness.

UNSATISFACTORY AREA

Cmdr. J. B. Fotheringham, skipper of HMCS St. Laurent, a ship of the same class as Skeena, replied: "It most assurely is . . . it has happened virtually every time I have conducted a practice shoot in this area."

The area in question, CID74, was termed by Cmdr. Fotheringham "unsatisfactory" for gunnery practice because of "the proximity of land, the airway to the south, and the amount of traffic that continuously goes through it."

PACK UP, GO HOME

Earlier, Mr. McKenzie said the defence was basing its main case on the contention that it was impossible to carry out a gunnery shoot in the area while observing all the regulations contained in the Pacific Command standing orders.

"The best position for the skipper would be to pack up and go home," the defence counsel said, "but that would not be in the best traditions of the naval service."

RULES TIGHTENED

In cross-examination, Lt.-Cmdr. Harold Shergold, gunnery officer on the flag officer's staff, disclosed that regulations governing gunnery shoots had been considerably tightened since the incident. The new orders were issued Feb. 8, eight days later.

Lieut. A. H. Brookbank, gunnery direction officer on the Skeena, testified the naval T-33 jet towing a target drogue fitted with radar reflector made four runs over the warship during which the forward twin 3½-inch guns scored not one hit.

SOMETHING WRONG

The witness said in cross-examination the radar-controlled guns scored "a high number" of hits when tuned to maximum performance and added that since no hits were scored on this occasion he assumed "something was wrong with the system."

Lieut. Brookbank also told the court that the automatic control unit, which is normally disconnected for surface shoots, "very conceivably" could have remained disconnected throughout the anti-aircraft shoot which relies on the automatic system.

CLUTCH ENGAGED

If the automatic tracking system remained de-clutched, the witness added, the gun barrel could be as much as 27 degrees off the bearing shown on the controls.

However, PO Grant McKinstry, radar controller in the Skeena's forward gunnery room, testified that the clutch was engaged on the automatic controls. He flatly rejected the defence counsel's suggestion that his evidence was based on "what should have been done rather than what actually was done on this occasion."

ALWAYS IN RANGE

Lieut. Richard Hitesman, navigating officer of the Skeena, said that at no time did he report to the ship's captain the proximity of land because in the area in question land is always within range of the warship's guns.

Cmdr. Leir faces a court martial board composed of Capt. D. G. Padmore, president, Cmdr. Hal Bolus, Cmdr. C. R. Parker, Cmdr. R. D. Wilson and Cmdr. Vincent Murphy. The latter replaced Cmdr. D. S. Boyle, excused by the court because he had discussed the incident fully with Cmdr. Leir.

JUDGE ADVOCATE

Judge advocate is Group Capt. J. A. Hollie, prosecutor is Lt.-Cmdr. Douglas Sherlock. Mr. McKenzie is assisted by Sqdn.-Ldr. D. W. G. Ward.

The hearing continues at 9.30 a.m. today.

the militia will probably come before city council today.

In Victoria Attorney-General Bonner said he will not hesitate to request Canadian Army troops for action in the Kootenays if this becomes necessary.

Mr. Bonner, asked whether he has requested any immediate assistance in the problem from Ottawa, said the "problem of the moment is one of investigation and for this purpose RCMP agencies in the Kootenays have been reinforced.

"More RCMP will be sought if requested by senior police authorities," he said.

Mr. Bonner said civil defence authorities from Victoria are going to the Kootenays to see local civil defence officials to determine whether any action is needed in this field.

"As for troops in aid to civil policing powers," he said, "if police authorities and the government thought they would serve any practical purpose, I wouldn't hesitate for a moment to call them out. And I'm sure that federal authorities would not hesitate to approve their participation.' "

The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, whose huge mining-smelter complex is the base of the Kootenay's economy, joined civic leaders in demanding government action to prevent further depredation.

1,000 IDLED

The company has close to 1,000 men idle from power-shortage closure of its mine at Riondel, closure of its iron and fertilizer operations at Kimberley and a 40-per-cent cutback in operations at its big lead-zinc mine at Kimberley. Its huge smelter operations at Trail were threatened with a shortage of concentrates usually supplied by the closed operations.

The company, in a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Justice Minister Fulton and Premier Bennett, said the blasting of its power pylon supporting a 170,000-volt power line will put the line out of operation for months.

"We are fearful," the company said, "that these acts of violence may extend to other parts of our operations.

BEYOND ABILITY

"We have had guards at strategic points but it is beyond our ability to cope with the concerted, highly-organized efforts to damage our operations, such as have been put forth with renewed effort since the recent prosecutions of members of a Doukhobor sect were initiated by the authorities."

ALPINE...a city slicker that can tame a country mile

Don't let its good looks fool you. The new Alpine cut its teeth on rugged cross-country travel. It came in first and second in its class in the last two Monte Carlo Rallies. It won the coveted efficiency cup in the 1961 Le Mans Grand Prix (91 m.p.h. average; 18 miles per gallon!). It took first in its class in the 1961 East African Safari. Rough roads? You bet!

This suave-looking city slicker—with its low road grip, roll-up windows and optional snug-fitting hardtop—is in high demand, and short supply. A good reason why you should take a city or country test drive in the new 1962 Alpine now.

Price P.O.E. west coast $2595—hardtop, whitewalls, wire wheels, overdrive (optional extras). Sales taxes extra where applicable.

Garden Notes

Just Slather It On

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

All this week I have been yakking away about the spring conditioning of the lawn. We have most of the hard work done now, and all that remains is to feed the grass and perhaps knock off any weeds that may be in the lawn.

I don't suppose you will find any two gardeners who can agree on what constitutes a good lawn fertilizer. Some of my best friends will use nothing but organiz fertilizer and will have nothing whatever to do with chemicals, pointing out that most golf courses use organics of the sewage byproducts type.

* * *

I have nothing against organic fertilizers, except that they cost too much if you take into account their actual content of plant nutrients. They do have one big advantage—you can slather the stuff all over the lawn without any fear of burning the grass with an overdose. This, in fact, is why so many golf-course greenskeepers use it—they can't trust their ham-handed hired help with corrosive chemical fertilizers.

Actually, this advantage is being lost, for chemical lawn fertilizers are being formulated nowadays which are just as safe to use as any organic type.

A good example of a modern chemical lawn fertilizer is Golden Vigoro, in which nitrogen, phosphorus and potash are all supplied in the proper proportion, unlike sulphate of ammonia or nitrate of soda, which contain only the nitrogen element. I think the first feed of the year should be with a well-balanced, complete fertilizer, stimulating root activity as well as leaf growth and leaving the sulphate of ammonia for a midsummer pick-me-up.

* * *

The nitrogen element in Golden Vigoro is supplied in two different forms; there is a little of a quick-acting chemical to green up the lawn rapidly, but the bulk of the nitrogen is in a slow-acting, long lasting form which continues to feed the lawn over a period of three months or longer.

Mind you, I don't hold any special brief for Golden Vigoro, and I don't suppose it is any better or any worse than a dozen other brands. The competition to develop the complete and safe lawn fertilizer is so intense nowadays that I doubt if any manufacturer has much of an edge over another. It is just that I happen to have had more experience with this particular brand, and have become familiar with its action.

Actually, I like the formula of Green Cross Lawn Green better, for this fertilizer is enriched with a lot of secondary plant foods and minerals such as iron, magnesium, boron and manganese, together with a root-stimulating hormone. The stuff has to be applied in water, though, and fairly frequently at that, which I find a bit of a nuisance as far as the lawn is concerned, although I use it all the time as a transplanting solution and for feeding trees, shrubs and houseplants.

* * *

By far the best way to apply a dry bag fertilizer is with a proper fertilizer spreader—a little wheeled cart with holes in the bottom to distribute the fertilizer in measured doses. If your lawn is too small to rate the purchase or rental of such a gadget, I think it is best to bulk out your fertilizer with sand, so you can slather the stuff on by hand thickly enough to see whether or not you are getting an even distribution over the lawn.

Magic Key of Bunny Baron

CHICAGO—Thanks to a magazine called Playboy, which is headquartered in what was formerly the hog capital of the world, Chicago is now thought of as a city where every bachelor has his own indoor heated swimming pool where lovely fillies, unencumbered by bathing suits, float blissfully on the water keeping time to stereo music. If this is the wrong image of Chicago, it must be blamed on Playboy's publisher, Hugh Hefner, whose parties, photographed in color and printed in Playboy have earned him the title of world's most envied bachelor.

But what the world doesn't know, but is finding out pretty fast, is that Mr. Hefner is a business man first and a bachelor second and has parlayed this swimming pool into one of the fastest growing enterprises in the country.

* * *

Using Playboy magazine as a springboard, he has opened and is opening Playboy key clubs in many parts of the United States and pretty soon he will be opening key clubs abroad. The key clubs, decorated by live and lovely "bunnies," provide excellent entertainment and meals for $1.50, which makes Hefner a sort of Father Divine of the travelling salesman.

But he has no intention of stopping there. Hefner holds jazz festivals, publishes books, is building a Playboy Hotel in California, is designing a Playboy sports car, and there is now a long line of Playboy products, including jewelry, stuffed animals, cologne, and beer mugs, all with the famous bunny symbol. There is also a film being made of his life with Tony Curtis.

* * *

Hefner's only failure so far has been his short-lived Show Business Illustrated, where he was supposed to have dropped a million dollars, but it hasn't discouraged him from going on to bigger and better things.

Some people are afraid that Hefner may try to take over the United States. If not by force, at least by sex. He has 130,000 Playboy members now who have pledged to follow Hefner in whatever direction he wishes to go.

They all have keys and if Hefner can change the locks on some of the government buildings in Washington, including the White House, there is no reason why he couldn't take over the country.

Many people in Chicago think Bobby Kennedy's recent trip around the world was a secret mission for Mr. Hefner to find new locations for Playboy key clubs. The slogan of the playboy is, of course, "Today girls, tomorrow the world."

* * *

We were invited to Hefner's house one night to look around, which is to Chicago what being invited to Buckingham Palace is to London. Unfortunately no one was taking pictures for Playboy and the place was empty, and the swimming pool had nothing but water in it. Trying to hide our disappointment, we asked Mr. Hefner if he had any plans to get married and give up this charmed life he was leading. He said he didn't.

And then we realized why. Hugh Hefner getting married would have the same effect on the public as Desi and Lucy getting a divorce. The country wouldn't stand for it.

Frank, Juliet May Elope Despite 'Tiff'

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Frank Sinatra and Juliet Prowse could have a quickie elopement in spite of their public severance of their engagement—considered by some a publicity stunt. I'm beginning to think it was not.

William Holden says "no publicity" for The Lion, until he is absolutely rested in Palm Springs where he is seeking little spots of sunshine with wife Brenda Marshall. It's been mostly rain at the springs, as it was on The Lion location in Africa . . . Next for Holden: Holiday for Henrietta with Audrey Hepburn in Paris in May.

* * *

Susan Strasberg, here to dub her dialogue for Hemingway's Adventures of a Young Man, is searching madly for a movie to make in Hollywood. It would be such a change, she says, from Rome!

* * *

Now that Stuart Whitman has an Oscar nomination, maybe Marilyn Monroe will okay him for her Something's Got to Give. Stu has been campaigning for the assignment . . . Nunnally Johnson, now rewriting the Monroe script in London, stated emphatically a few years ago he would never make a picture with Marilyn again. Quite obviously he has changed his mind.

* * *

Whitman, by the way, may land the role of Rikki in Jerry Wald's Celebration, with Joanne Woodward and Richard Beymer. And Joe Mankiewicz has a triple parley in mind for his Lawrence Durrell movie—Ava Gardner, Simone Signoret and Elizabeth Taylor. With the much-sought-after Italian star, Marcello Mastroianni.

Playwright Arthur Miller's new wife, Ingeborg Morath, used her bra to save Audie Murphy from drowning when he fell into a lake from a boat while filming The Unforgiven. Miss Morath, taking photographs, swam to his rescue and gallantly extended her bra as a lifeline.

Danny Thomas was lunching with his pretty daughter, Marlo. "I am discussing a TV series at this studio," Danny told me. And later, "It looks promising." And from Marlo: "I'm in the Joey Bishop show and I like it; but I want something more dramatic."

Producer Richard Zanuck, just back from visiting papa Darryl in France, informed me the last footage of film has been shot on The Longest Day. "I saw an hour and a half of it run off," said Richard, "and this picture is tremendous." We will see the war epic near the end of the year—in time for Oscar consideration.

Loyal Non-Smoker Gets His Reward

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—In the summer of 1938, 17-year-old William Powell made a bet of $5 with his father Eric Powell that he would not become a "tobacco-addict" before he reached the age of 40.

Now, the father, living in Victoria, has sent his son in Duncan a cheque with a plaque for his 40th birthday.

DON'T COUNT

Living at Maple Bay 24 years ago father and son discussed the pros and cons of smoking, and when the former, a persistent pipe smoker, claimed "Sure, you'll soon be starting smoking," the latter replied "No, I won't."

Junior tried hard not to violate his pledge and he says the 20 cigarets he smoked during the past two decades do not count for he never became "addicted to the stuff."

TWICE TEMPTED

Twice he was tempted during his army career from 1941 until 1946 in France, Belgium and Holland and today he is glad he didn't start.

Now the father of one boy and three daughters, he says he will advise rather than compel them not to smoke when they grow up. As far as grown-ups are concerned Mr. Powell feels "It's everyone's own business."

HE'S DIPLOMATIC

The presistent non-smoker and his non-smoking wife, Dorothy, have friends who indulge in the habit but it does not bother the couple in the least. As for women smokers Mr. Powell says diplomatically, "I prefer women not to smoke."

A Boy Scout since 1935, he is now a district scoutmaster in the Cowichan Valley and he agrees his non-smoking habit might be a good example.

The $5 cheque Junior received from Powell Senior was accompanied by a plaque reading: "William James Kershaw Powell, whereas it has been heretofore deemed that abstinence from the use of tobacco for 40 years merits recognition, this plaque is herewith presented."

Pumps Try to Refloat Grounded Freighter

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI)—A shipping firm will start pumping operations today on the grounded Lebanese freighter Suerte in a bid to free the vessel from shoals off the Halifax county coastline.

Heavy surf during the past few days prevented crews from putting equipment aboard the freighter grounded since early in January. The first job will be to pump water from the engine room.

Federal School Aid Urged to Ease Economic Plight

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. J. Frank Leddy, vice-president of the University of Saskatchewan, said yesterday that despite "awkward constitutional problems" the federal government must contribute to the cost of public education.

In a windup address to the 2,000 delegates attending the five-day Canadian Conference on Education, Dr. Leddy said he believes it possible for the federal government to support education without "any unwelcome threat of direction" in what is constitutionally a provincial responsibility.

NOT SUFFICIENT

Such assistance was essential because municipal and provincial taxation sources were no longer sufficient to finance an educational system geared to meet the demands of Canadian survival.

"I am aware that I here tread on dangerous ground, an easy target for the stern theorist in constitutional matters, especially those who are, for other reasons, rightly concerned to protect and maintain the legitimate interest of Canadians of the French language.

NATIONAL PROBLEM

"The plight of our schools and universities, often tied to out-of-date financial procedures, increasingly inadequate, presents a national problem and it must be solved by national means, unencumbered by the dreary mystique of constitutional lawyers, happily debating clauses and commas without reference to the grim realities of a world in which we now live and in which great nations do not hamper and hobble themselves."

A beginning, he said, had been made at the university and vocational levels with federal grants.

" . . . I see no reason why we cannot do as well at other levels of education, throughout Canada, without offence or transgression . . ."

Deas Island Crash Kills Man

VANCOUVER (CP)—Henry Neufeld, 40, died Thursday a few hours after a car in which he was riding rolled out of control off the Deas Island Throughway south of here and burst into flames. Charles Prior, 39, who was also in the car, is in hospital in good condition.

Weather May Set Election As Farmers Fear for Crop

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The political weather in Ontario and Quebec rather than the actual weather on the Prairies now is being regarded as an important factor in determining the date of the next general election.

The final decision rests with Prime Minister Diefenbaker alone, but Conservative MPs say there has been a considerable shift in their opinions—and their opinions may have a bearing on Mr. Diefenbaker's choice.

FARMERS UNHAPPY

MPs representing the major wheat-producing areas of the Prairie provinces say farmers still are unhappy about the prospects for this year's crop. This winter's snowfall so far has been little better than last winter's and is not yet enough to overcome the severe drought of last summer.

Some weeks ago western MPs were worried that poor crop prospects would react against the government in its re-election bid. Now, however, they are saying the government's popularity has risen with recent increases in wheat prices. They are assuring their farmer-voters the Diefenbaker government will come to their aid again, as it has in the past, if they suffer severe crop losses.

Differing reports are to be had of the current political weather in Ontario and Quebec. The Conservatives are frowning over the activity being displayed by the Liberals in both provinces and by the New Democratic Party's campaign in Ontario and Social Credit activity in Quebec.

Retirement Bid Fails

COMO, Italy (AP) — Some locomotives are invited into museums after retirement. This one tried to crash in.

An ancient steam engine that makes the run around scenic Lake Como was hauling four coaches Wednesday at the lake station of San Giovanni. Its brakes failed as it approached the end of the line.

The four coaches stayed behind. But the engine continued across a sand embankment and down into the garden of a museum dedicated to Alessandro Volta, the Italian electrical wizard.

Workmen built a rail extension and the old engine chugged back to where it belonged.

National League? What's That?

Canada Romps Over Finns As World Hockey Off Mark

DENVER—Canada opened defence of the "world" amateur hockey championship in convincing style Thursday night by romping to an 8-1 win over Finland.

United States, expected to provide the sternest opposition for the Galt Terriers, did nothing to dispel that belief in a 14-2 rout of Norway.

In the third game of the championship bracket, Switzerland bested Britain, 6-3.

Games scheduled Friday have Finland playing Britain, Sweden playing Switzerland and West Germany meeting Norway.

SLOAN SCORES TWO

Tod Sloan, 34-year-old former National Hockey League star who got himself re-instated as an amateur to try and help the Terriers keep the championship won last year by Trail Smoke Eaters, led the Canadian attack with two goals and two assists.

Jackie McLeod, another of the several ex-pros in the Canadian lineup, had a goal and an assist. Jack Martin, Ted Maki, BobMcKnight, Joe Hogan and Joe Malo got the other Canadian goals.

A crowd of about 1,500 saw the Canadians win as easily as the score indicates. Canadian-goalkeeper Harold "Boat" Hurley received good protection from his defencemen, lost his shutout in the third period when a shot slipped in just inside a goalpost.

At the other end, Risto Kaitala, the tiny Finnish keeper, performed valiantly and often brilliantly to keep the score from mounting well into double figures.

Canada: Goal—Hurley; defence—Maki, Douglas, Smith, Mitchell; forwards—Wylie, McKnight, Martin, Sloan, Malo, Brown, Hogan, Mader, McLeod.

Big Things Planned For Three Rookies

By United Press International

In the spring a baseball manager's fancy turns to rookies—and right now there are three mighty fine ones strutting their stuff.

They're outfielder Don Clendenon of the Pittsburgh Pirates, catcher-first-baseman Gene Oliver of the St. Louis Cardinals and infielder Jake Gibbs of the New York Yankees.

HOPES HIGH

There may be many a called third strike between now and opening day but as of the moment big things are being planned for each of the trio.

- Clendenon, who hit .290 for Columbus last season, drove in seven runs with a three-run homer and a grand slam Wednesday and may win a regular berth in the Pirates' outfield.

- Oliver, who hit 36 homers and batted .302 for Portland in 1961, was named to start behind the plate when the Cardinals open their exhibition schedule Saturday against the New York Mets. Oliver also is being considered as a sub for Lefty-hitting first-baseman Bill White when the Cardinals fact left-handed pitching.

- Gibbs, a .270-hitter at Richmond and one of the Yankees' leading candidates to replace shortstop Tony Kubek, hammered out a long homer in the world champions' intra-squad game. The former University of Mississippi all-America's drive shared the spotlight with Roger Maris' first "homer" of the spring.

SHARP EYES

Veterans Joe Adcock and Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves and Brooks Robinson and Jim Gentile of the Baltimore Orioles also showed that their batting eyes are sharp for the exhibition openers.

Adcock, pinch-hitting for both teams in an intra-squad game, hit a homer and three singles, while Mathews, also pinch-hitting in the informal game, had three singles. Robinson had a single and a double and Gentile a two-run single in the Orioles' intra-squad game.

Motor Bike Race Set

Riders of the Victoria Motorcycle Club will open their major event calendar Sunday afternoon with the first of three annual cross-country races.

With the start set for 1.30 at the club's property on Millstream Road, a large field of entries will run through heats, a consolation race, and a main event in an effort to gain points toward the cross-country trophy.

Good Skiing Until May

Good skiing conditions until May is the happy report from the Sno Birds Ski Club. Their Green Montain development near Nanaimo Lakes now has 70 inches of base and another six of new snow.

Those driving up for Sunday's races should have snow tires on their cars and chains are preferred.

Those wishing to take the bus are asked to phone GR 9-5420.

Trail Skip Keeps On Fighting As Brier Race Hits Climax

From CP and UPI Reports

KITCHENER — Trail veteran Reg Stone finally faltered Thursday but when play had ended in the annual Canadian curling championships, British Columbia was sharing the lead with rinks from the three Prairie provinces as Western curlers once more proved their superiority in Canadian curling.

In a three-draw day which produced the ultimate in curling thrills, B.C. won and lost in two extra-end games, Alberta lost once in three games, Manitoba, with luck, won three games, Saskatchewan won two, and Ontario won two and lost one.

	W	L
British Columbia	6	2
Alberta	6	2
Saskatchewan	6	2
Manitoba	6	2
Ontario	6	3
New Brunswick	5	4
Nova Scotia	4	4
Northern Ontario	4	4
Quebec	2	6
Newfoundland	0	8
Prince Edward Island	0	8

FINAL DRAWS

8.30 a.m., PST—B.C. vs. N.S.; Alberta vs. P.E.I.; Saskatchewan vs. N.B.; Manitoba vs. N. Ontario; Quebec vs. Newfoundland.

Noon, PST—B.C. vs. Manitoba; Alberta vs. N. Ontario; Saskatchewan vs. Quebec; Ontario vs. N.S.; P.E.I. vs. N.B.

That left the four Western provinces with 6-2 records, Ontario all but out of it with a 6-3 showing, and the balance of the 11 rinks mathematically eliminated.

A playoff is all but certain, and it will probably involve three rinks — Saskatchewan, Alberta and either Manitoba or B.C.

Officials said that if two teams are tied, a playoff will be held Friday night. If three rinks share the lead when the final draw is over, the semi-final game will be played Friday and the final on Saturday morning.

If five rinks should tie, possible if not probable, it is likely that a quarter-final game will be played Friday with semi-finals and finals on Saturday.

TOUGH SCHEDULE

B.C. has the toughest remaining schedule, facing Nova Scotia on Friday morning and then tackling Norm Houck's tough Manitobans on the last scheduled draw in a game which should end the hopes of the losing rink.

B.C. ran afoul of Don Redding and his Northern Ontario champions from Kenora Thursday morning, losing when Stone, who has been easily the individual standout, missed two key shots.

INCHES HEAVY

Redding forced an extra end by getting two on the 12th end, won it, 10-9, when Stone was inches heavy drawing with last rock. It was only the third time in the seven games played up until then that Stone had failed to make a draw shot.

But a takeout miss on the 10th was the damaging blow. Stone could have counted four and taken a 12-6 lead, but rubbed off a front rock and Northern Ontario counted one to get to 7-8.

TOUGH TASK

Stone was then faced with the formidable job of beating Ontario's temporarily-transplanted Saskatchewan stars, skipped by Bayne Secord, to stay alive.

He barely made it, 8-6, in a game which produced some of the best curling in a final which has been replete with tense finishes.

Stone appeared to be in control when he stole a point on the 10th end to take a 6-4 lead. But Ontario took one on the 11th and forced the extra end by stealing a point on the 12th.

STANDING OVATION

The 5,672 fans who made up a new record for Eastern curling gave Stone a standing ovation when he took out the shot Ontario rock to count the two winning points.

It was the kind of action that was on tap from the morning draw through to the finish, and Kitchener fans sensed what was in store. They were lining up early for the first draw and 5,923 fans showed up for the three draws.

BIG GAME

Big game for most in the morning was the meeting between defending-champion Hec Gervais of Alberta and Saskatchewan's Richardsons, Canadian champions in 1959 and 1960.

Saskatchewan jumped to an early 6-1 lead by scoring two on both the fourth and fifth ends as Alberta missed key shots.

A miss by vice-skip Ron Anton set up the two on the fourth. Anton missed again on the fifth and Gervais lost when he gambled on a double.

SCORES THREE

Alberta battled back with two on the sixth, then stole singles on seventh and eighth ends as skip Ernie Richardson missed his last-rock draws. Richardson wicked off a guard on the 10th and Alberta scored three to take an 8-7 lead.

Ricardson then missed a chance for two on the 11th by rolling out on a takeout but he got something started on the 12th. Gervais went for a double which would have won with his last rock, missed it by an inch and Alberta was back with the pack.

Alberta then took New Brunswick, 10-7, and routed Quebec, 14-5, to stay among the leaders. Saskatchewan coasted against Newfoundland, 10-6, in the afternoon, then sat it out with the bye in the evening.

Meanwhile, Houck was battling to give Manitoba its first Brier Tankard since 1956.

After a close 7-4 win over New Brunswick in the morning, Quebec had Manitoba on the ropes in the afternoon. Houck led, 7-6, heading home but Quebec's Bill Armstrong had the game tied when he went down for last rock. Gambling for the win, he chipped out his counter and Manitoba took two for a 9-6 win.

Manitoba then completed catching up with a 15-2 rout of winless Prince Edward Island.

But while the leaders provided the tensions, the also-rans were also making a bit of news.

Nova Scotia scored an improbable six on the last end to defeat Prince Edward Island, 12-9, in the afternoon. In the evening, Newfoundland, which has only won 14 games in Brier competition, took a 27-4 defeat from New Brunswick.

It wasn't quite a record. In 1957 at Kingston, Saskatchewan's Campbell's beat New Brunswick, 30-3, and New Brunswick still holds the unwanted record it tried so hard to erase.

Detroit Closes Gap; Leafs and Habs Tie

Detroit Red Wings got shut-out goaling from Hank Bassen and two goals from their latest rookie hope last night to move within one point of the New York Rangers and the last playoff spot in the National Hockey League.

Meanwhile, first place was all but assured for Montreal Canadiens in last night's other game, the defending league champions gaining a 1-1 tie with the runner-up Toronto Maple Leafs at Montreal.

	P	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
Montreal	61	35	12	14	226	141	84
Toronto	62	34	19	9	213	160	77
Chicago	63	29	21	13	189	163	71
New York	64	23	30	11	181	195	57
Detroit	62	22	28	12	173	197	56
Boston	64	12	45	7	155	289	31

Last night's scores: Detroit 3 at Boston 0; Toronto 1 at Montreal 1.
Next games: tomorrow — Boston at Montreal; Detroit at Toronto.

Result left Canadiens still with a seven-point bulge and the Leafs with only eight games left as compared to nine for Montreal. But the point was an important one for Toronto, increasing the gap between the Leafs and third-place Hawks to six points.

Bruins, now winless in their last 18 games, sent Charlie Burns out to shadow Gordie Howe. The helmeted forward was successful as Howe failed to get his 500th goal, or even an assist, but Larry Jeffrey, playing his first professional season and not long up from Edmonton of the WHL, provided the goals.

THIRD SHUTOUT

Jeffrey scored the clinching goals after Val Fonteyne had opened the scoring. Bassen did the rest with a fine display between the pipes which gave him his third shutout of the season.

Only 5,642 fans, one of the smallest-ever Boston crowds, bothered to see if the Bruins were finally going to win one.

Action was more interesting and far more rugged at Montreal, where the Leafs nursed a one-goal lead for 38 minutes after defenceman Tim Horton had scored in the first period.

Bernie Geoffrion tied it in the 12th minute of the third period on a sizzling skip shot. Canadiens have now tied three and lost the other of their last four games.

Centre Jean Beliveau and defenceman Lou Fontinato returned to the Montreal lineup and Canadiens brought up Billy Carter from Hull-Ottawa of the Eastern league to replace Henri Richard.

Record Price Paid For Soccer Player

LONDON (AP) -- Johnny Byrne, English soccer star, was transferred Thursday from Crystal Palace to West Ham United in an estimated £65,000 ($182,000) deal—a record between English league clubs.

The hard-shooting inside forward cost West Ham £60,000 ($168,000) in cash plus forward Ron Brett, who was transferred to Crystal Palace in part exchange. Brett was valued at £5,000 ($14,000).

The previous record fee was £55,000 ($154,000), paid by Manchester City to Huddersfield Town for inside forward Denis Law in 1960. Law now is with Turin, Italy.

Big Prairie Storms Help Duck Prospects

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavy winter snows have promised relief from the four-year drought which has affected wildfowl populations in Canadian Prairie provinces.

Ducks Unlimited, Inc., says prospects for a good nesting season for ducks and geese have been heightened in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, where Ducks Unlimited maintains more than 600 "duck factories."

Recent snowstorms have dumped heavy layers across the major portion of the breeding area. A quick thaw, with seepage and soakage kept to a minimum, should increase water in the natural sloughs, Ducks Unlimited said.

NFL Franchise Offer Alleged

BALTIMORE (AP) — K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr., owner of Houston Oilers of the American Football League, says he was offered a National Football League franchise if he would drop out of the new league.

Adams said in United States district court Wednesday the offer was made about a month after plans for formation of the AFL were announced publicly. The offer came from Edwin Pauley, part owner of the NFL Los Angeles Rams, he said.

Adams testified on the seventh day of the AFL's $10,000,000 anti-trust suit against the NFL.

Adams said he tried for 2½ years to get an NFL franchise in Houston before going into the AFL in 1959.

Pete Mazur (Who?) Leads Pro Golf Test

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Pete Mazur, a complete unknown on the pro golf tournament trail, blistered the Pensacola Country Club Thursday for a nine-under-par 63.

The 31-32 card gave the 39-year-old Tonawanda, N.Y., pro who has never won a title in eight years of play a three-stroke lead on the opening round of the $20,000 Pensacola Open.

Bunched in back of him at 66 were such well-known names as Arnold Palmer, defending champion Tommy Bolt and Joe Campbell, winner at Baton Rouge last week.

It all depends upon the turn of the weather as to whether this weekend will see terrific steelhead fishing, or rivers in such full freshet they will be impossible to fish.

Most rivers now are too low and too clear for the best steelheading. But the snow is melting slowly. Frost at nights has been stopping a too-fast runoff. A little rain has been helping.

If that keeps up, the rivers should be perfect for steelheading. If heavy rains come and melt the snow too quickly, the rivers will become in full flood and too cloudy and muddy for fishing. In that event stay home and get your tackle and boat equipment in shape for summer and spring fishing.

The bridge has been repaired at Port Renfrew and entry may again be made by the west coast road from Jordan River.

Last weekend the local fly fishermen at Port Renfrew were hauling trout up to two pounds from the ditch and slough alondside the road just past the Deering Bridge. The rivers were low, but there was rain there Wednesday and they were rising slowly.

* * *

The Cowichan has been giving up quite a few steelhead from the bar below the Silver Bridge right up through the Riverbottom area to Skutz Falls. Snow ploughs have been at work along the Riverbottom Road on both sides of the washout, but along the riverbanks snow has been knee deep and is melting only slowly.

Bill Vaux and George Syrotuk have been getting the steelies from the Cowichan consistently this week and Ed Mould has been picking up some trout in the Cowichan.

Mid-Island rivers—the Qualicums and Englishman—have been low, but there are steelhead in them and they are rising slowly and should be perfect for the weekend. In the Albernis streams have been too low for fishing, but Taylor River, the heads of Taylor and Two River Arms on Sproat Lake are ripe for sea-run cutthroats.

Courtenay district rivers have been giving some good steelheading and in the Campbell River area the Gold and the Bear River have been good, but there is no public access to the Gold River area.

In the Sooke area, Kemp Lake should be a good bet for fly fishermen.

* * *

Herring fishing on the Gorge hasn't been good yet, but they have been getting a few tides. Dropping tides in midday haven't helped the fishermen.

Ling cod fishing is now open again, and those who aren't having much luck with salmon should try for some of the lings, which are plentiful and easy to catch at this time of year.

Salmon fishing off the Victoria, Oak Bay and Sooke waterfronts hasn't been good, but persistent fishermen like Charlie Guignet, who fishes off Oak Bay, are still picking up their share.

* * *

Saanich Inlet fishing hasn't been hot, but enough effort will produce fish. Doug Dye picked up a 10-pounder and an eight-pounder in his favorite Tod Inlet waters on Saturday.

Jim Gilbert and George Alexander limited Saturday night on jacks up to 4½ pounds at the Deep Hole and down deep, 150 to 250 feet and planer.

Gilbert has been getting jacks regularly in the Quarry Bay to Deep Hole waters.

A few jacksprings and spring grilse are being taken very deep around the Stone House and there are bluebacks jumping from Goldstream right up to Bamberton and Senanus Island, with the big concentration in the lower part of Finlayson Arm. These blues may still be caught on bucktail flies, but fishing for them is just about as frustrating as fishing for Coho in Cowichan Bay.

* * *

Brant season is over with less than 50 brant being shot as far as we can determine. Sixteen hunters were out at Sidney Spit on the weekend and bagged four brant Saturday and six on Sunday. A few brant, probably no more than 20, were bagged in the Parksville-Qualicum area at the weekend and the middle of last week.

On Monday, a flock of about 80 brant flew over the Sooke area, but they were just out of gun range.

Now the season is over, the brant, as usual, will start appearing in large numbers at a great many Island beaches.

Montreal Wants Canuck Club

By BRUCE McLEAN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Montreal Canadiens are ready to take over Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League in a deal which would include an option to buy the club.

A spokesman for five Vancouver business men said Thursday the National Hockey League team is tied in with the group in a proposal to supply players and a coach for the Canucks starting next season.

Lumberman L. L. G. Bentley told a press conference he initiated the deal in talks last January with Senator Hartland de M. Molson, Canadiens' president, and Frank Selke, managing director.

"The whole thing is still in a preliminary stage," he said. "But if things work out, we will be making an offer to the Pacific National Exhibition (owners of the Canucks) early in May."

He said the basic idea was for the Canadiens and the Vancouver group to share ownership of the Canucks on a 50-50 basis.

WAIT FOR PURCHASE

Initially the PNE would hold the club's WHL franchise until the NHL team and the group of five were ready to make an outright purchase.

"The difficulty right now is that we don't think the team is worth the $150,000 which the taxpayers of Vancouver paid for it," said Mr. Bentley.

The PNE is a civic body which operates the Vancouver Forum, the Canucks' home arena, and adjacent city fair grounds.

Associated with Mr. Bentley in the deal are his son, Peter, businessman Ronald Cliff, department store president C. N. Woodward and banker H. M. MacDougall.

Mr. Bentley said the group had hoped to withhold news of the proposal because of Montreal's current player tie-up with the Spokane Comets, another WHL club.

But word of the deal leaked out earlier Thursday forcing the group to make a full disclosure, he said.

PNE president Thomas Fyfe said the group has made no formal offer for the Canucks but that it had been discussed officially.

The Canucks, 17 games out of a playoff spot in the league's Northern Division, have been having a poor year at the ticket office.

Attendance for 31 home games this season totals 62,770 and will drop below 100,000 for the whole season, one of the few times it has dipped to this level in the Canucks' 16 years as a professional and amateur team.

Mr. Fyfe said directors would also be considering four other offers to buy the club at the end of the season.

They include separate bids of at least $100,000 from Art Edwards, a Long Beach, Calif., millionaire, and former Vancouver mayor Fred Hume.

Mekilok Finally Hits Stride In Fourth Season in WHL

Blossoming a bit later than Montreal Canadiens had expected, Spokane-centreman Max Mekilok is currently leading the individual point race in the Western Hockey League with 83 points.

Now 28 and playing his fourth WHL season, Mekilok has 32 goals and 51 assists. But his lead is only two points. Another centre, Calgary's Norm Johnson, has a league-leading total of 58 assists and 23 goals. And Johnson has one more game to play than Mekilok.

In third place is San Francisco-winger Bob Solinger, 37 years old and a professional for 15 seasons. Solinger is having his best-ever season with 27 goals and 51 assists for 78 points.

Only a point behind is Portland-winger Tom McVie, who has proved beyond doubt that he can score without Guyle Fielder as his centre.

McVie has a league-leading 44 goals as well as 33 assists.

Spokane-rookie Connie Madigan leads in penalties with 150 minutes and Seattle-veteran Al Millar leads goalkeepers with a 3.04 goals-against average for the 49 games he has played.

Giant Slugger Back in Fold

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Orlando Cepeda came to terms Thursday with San Francisco Giants on his 1962 baseball contract for a reported $46,000.

The slugging first baseman who led the National League last year in home runs (46) and runs-batted-in (142) sent a wire from his Puerto Rico home to club vice-president Chub Feeney saying he would report for spring duty Monday.

Blackouts, Headaches Followed Attack—Fan

SEATTLE (AP) — Bill S. Carr, 37, Seattle hockey fan, testified Thursday in his $50,000 damage suit that he has suffered blackouts and bad headaches since an altercation last year with a Spokane player.

Carr told a Superior Court jury of five women and seven men he was struck from behind by Colin Kilburn, of the Spokane Western Hockey League club, as he was walking with his wife out of the Civic Ice Arena lobby Jan. 15, 1961.

He said he was beaten unconscious. The incident occurred after a game between Seattle and Spokane.

Also named in the suit with Kilburn are Roy McBride, manager of the Spokane Comets, and the Spokane and Seattle hockey clubs.

Carr contends McBride failed to do anything while the altercation was going on, and the Seattle club did not provide proper protection in the arena.

Kilburn, who was not present when the trial opened late Wednesday, said after the ruckus that Carr struck him first.

Bennett Opens Tenders

Peace River Tunnel Bid $10,000,000 Surprise

VANCOUVER (CP)—A group of four companies entered a low bid of $16,906,423 as tenders for construction of three Peace River diversion tunnels were opened here Thursday by Premier Bennett.

The bid by Drake Construction Co. of Winnipeg, Henry J. Kaise Co. (Canada) of Montreal, Gilpin Construction Co., Vancouver, and Mannix Ltd. of Calgary was nearly $10,000,000 under the estimate made by a firm of consulting engineers for the B.C. Energy Board.

The first three bids were within a range of $500,000 and the first seven spanned about $2,500,000.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett returned from a mystery trip to the United States Thursday, saying he talked with financiers and industrialists about the Columbia and Peace River hydro projects. However, the premier declined to say where he had been or name the people he spoke with.

Although terms of bidding provide for a contract award by March 20, it will likely be made earlier.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, president and chairman of B.C. Electric, who will build and operate the hydro project in the province's central north, said processing of bids would be rushed to allow contractors to get on the ground as soon as possible.

"This is an important day for the government and for the B.C. Electric, and, we think, for the province," Mr. Bennett said.

The premier said if the bid Thursday was an indication of the costs of construction, it will mean power from the Peace will be delivered in Vancouver at costs lower than present estimates.

About 280 persons watched the ceremonial opening in two auditoriums of the giant B.C. Electric building.

Spring Runoff Heavy On Rivers of B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — River runoff in February was below normal due to drought and cold weather in most regions east of Alberta, the water resources branch of the northern affairs department reported Thursday.

Runoff was excessive in British Columbia and above normal in most sections of Alberta. Snowfall has been light in Alberta, however, and spring runoff is expected to be below normal.

Runoff was below normal to deficient in the Maritimes, Quebec, the Prairies and Ontario.

Drug Squad Tells Hearing Of Cloak-and-Dagger Vigil

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP narcotics investigators Thursday gave a minute-by-minute description of how they maintained a daily round-the-clock watch on a home they said was the city's illicit narcotics distribution centre.

The officers were testifying at the preliminary hearing of 12 men and four women seized in mass narcotics arrests earlier this year.

The accused are charged with conspiracy to traffic in narcotics.

Officers told how they hid on verandas, stood in driving rain, peered through windows, observed suspects from bushes, used their own cars, lived in rented apartments and used walkie-talkies to keep in touch.

Constables Lorne Hansen and Douglas Kendall said they spied on the home of Bernard Lewis, 33, and Katharine Pilling, 27, from an upstairs apartment and from a yard across the street.

Const. Hansen said one time he saw Colin Coulson and Sharon Carlson get out of a taxi and enter the home. Coulson, 25, of New Westminster, and Miss Carlson, 23, of Victoria, are charged as conspirators in a narcotics distribution syndicate.

Conscientious Thief Returns Totem Pole

VANCOUVER (CP)—A thief with a conscience returned a totem pole he stole 10 days before from the porch of Mrs. G. E. Darby. She said Thursday the pole was returned by a "nice-looking young man" after he apparently read a newspaper account of how it had been given to the Darbys by Bella Bella Indians among whom her husband had served as a missionary for 45 years.

Laos Team Stems Fighting

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green asserted Thursday that the presence of the three-nation truce commission in Laos has "greatly reduced" fighting between pro-West and pro-Communist elements.

He also told the Commons he believes there is a reasonable chance of a political settlement in the Southeast Asian kingdom where civil war has raged off and on for several years.

"At the moment it all depends on the three princes," said Mr. Green. This was a reference to the princes—one pro-Western, one pro-Communist and a third avowedly neutralist—who meet occasionally to try to form a national government.

Mr. Green said that if the three can reach agreement, the 14-nation Geneva conference on Laos will wind up "pretty quickly." The conference, now nearly 10 months old, was called to work out an East-West agreement on Laos that would guarantee its security and underwrite its neutrality.

The external affairs minister complained that the Laos truce commission consisting of representatives of Canada, India and Poland has been unable to visit the "scenes of real fighting," and that it has not been provided with equipment "under its own exclusive control."

He added, however: "I think the fact that the commission is there has greatly reduced fighting. . . . If it were not, there would be a great deal more serious trouble than there is."

Dealing with the situation in South Viet Nam, Mr. Green contended that the Communists have been chiefly to blame for the recent growth of fighting there.

Green on New Talks:

Test Treaty Vital Part But Disarming Bigger

OTTAWA (UPI)—A nuclear test ban treaty will be an important part of next week's Geneva disarmament conference discussions, but it should not be allowed to hold up progress on general disarmament, External Affairs Minister Green said yesterday.

He made the statement in the Commons when asked by Opposition leader Pearson whether the government felt a test ban treaty was "an essential first step" toward progress on general disarmament.

Green said the question of an enforceable test ban would be taken up at a Big Three foreign ministers' meeting preceding the conference opening March 14 and would dominate early discussions in the new 18-nation committee.

"But it would be unwise for Canada to insist that this question be settled before the conference goes on to general disarmament," he said. "There shouldn't be that much of a rigid dividing line between the two."

Charge Denied

OTTAWA (UPI)—Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough yesterday denied her department was supplying lists of new Canadian citizens to the Conservative party, while refusing them to other political groups.

She said in the Commons the Liberal party had obtained such lists through the citizenship courts, the same way the Conservatives obtain theirs.

Nursing Plays Bigger Role

Need for co-operation between the active hospital, the convalescent hospital and the district nurse was outlined yesterday by Dr. R. N. Grant at the annual meeting of Victoria branch of Victoria Order of Nurses yesterday.

IMPORTANT ROLE

"Rehabilitation starts at the time of the accident," he said.

More and more doctors believe in keeping patients out of bed and moving as much as possible during rehabilitation and it is during the final phase when the patient is at home that the VON plays an important role, he said.

The number of patients receiving care since the start of the active rehabilitation program in 1960 has increased 160 per cent Miss Elizabeth Riddell, VON district director, reported.

She told the meeting 40 patients were cared for by this activation service in 1960. Thirteen of these were discharged from care during the year. The number cared for by the special service during 1961 increased to 104 with 64 of that number being discharged.

The annual meeting elected Mrs. George Pearkes, honorary president; Mrs. F. E. Norris, president; Mrs. Harold Webster, first vice-president, Mrs. T. F. Rose, second vice-president; A. J. M. Round, honorary secretary and K. W. Brown, honorary treasurer.

Nanaimo Hospital To Be Changed To Chronic Care

The present Nanaimo hospital will be converted to a chronic care institution upon the completion of the new $4,000,000 general hospital, Health Minister Eric Martin told the legislature yesterday.

He made the announcement during a debate in which NDP-CCF critics charged the government has done nothing to implement its long-promised chronic-care hospital program.

Mr. Martin said a lot had been done.

OVERESTIMATED

Cedric Cox (NDP-CCF—Burnaby) charged that health department expenditures had been overestimated by $8,000,000 in the past two years and said this amount would have gone a long way in providing treatment for chronic-care cases.

"Chronic cases should be brought under the $1-a-day BCHIS system immediately," he said. "You're just playing politics. It is about time you put monetary values second and human needs of the people first."

"That's not true," said Mr. Martin.

"It is true," retorted Mr. Cox. "You promised it last election. All it was was election talk . . . another Socred bubble has burst."

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said the minister had first promised a chronic-care program in 1955.

Mr. Martin heatedly replied the chronic-care program—which he preferred to refer to as rehabilitative care—had been started although admitted it had not yet reached the point "where we can begin to be satisfied."

Chronic Care for B.C. If Ottawa Helps to Pay

Health Minister Eric Martin indicated to the legislature yesterday that British Columbia will be ready to place full chronic medical care into operation, only when the federal government institutes a plan to contribute to long-term patient care.

He said he hoped the royal commission now studying national health will recommend that aged and infirm patients be covered in a hospital plan with federal aid.

GRANTS-IN-AID

"I also hope we will be able to up grants-in-aid to hasten new beds . . . I know you are dissatisfied . . . So am I," he said.

He explained the reason the province has not already gone into the covering of chronic patients is because of the immense costs involved.

IF IN NEED

"If a person is in need and requires bedside nursing, they get it (welfare)," he said.

He said he hoped the day would not be too far off when all aged and infirm are covered by hospital insurance.

CHRONIC PATIENTS

Mr. Martin was answering Lois Haggen (NDP-CCF—Grand Forks-Greenwood) who said many truly chronic patients were lying in hospitals alongside the 70 per cent of welfare patients.

She said there were 750 truly chronic people in B.C.

She said because chronic patients do not qualify for welfare, there are family sacrifices where life savings are used and lives of children are spoiled to care for the chronically ill.

Certificates For Nurses?

Lois Haggen (NDP-CCF—Grand Forks-Greenwood) called in the legislature yesterday for practical nurses to receive certificates and to be elevated to professional status.

She said a school of instruction would have to be set up. She said nurses' aides and practical nurses are "fine young girls."

After Closing-Down

Mental Home Workers Get Promise of Jobs

The 90 employees of Wilkinson Road mental hospital will be offered other jobs in the civil service when the ancient institution is closed down, health department officials said yesterday.

Health Minister Eric Martin announced earlier this session no new patients are being sent to Colquitz and it would gradually be closed down. Employees have been concerned over possible loss of their jobs.

Officials said the employees have been told other jobs will be offered to them—either here or on the mainland.

A new mental hospital will be built at Wilkinson Road but it is expected this will not be completed for a few years.

'Health Plan Delayed By CCF Bulldozing'

"Bulldozing tactics" by Saskatchewan's CCF government have delayed the introduction of a medical care plan in Canada for years, Health Minister Eric Martin said yesterday.

He said it was impossible to set up a properly effective medical insurance plan without the co-operation of the medical profession.

"Because of the policy of compulsion used by the Saskatchewan government to set up its pre-paid care program there could well be a delay in a health care program in Canada for years," he stated.

Opposition members bitterly assailed Mr. Martin for his views.

At the same time the minister said that the government did not appear before the royal commission on health services during its sittings here recently because it wasn't government policy and it wasn't felt necessary.

B.C.'s views, he said, were well known to Ottawa and to the royal commission.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan charged that the people of B.C. were becoming sick and tired of B.C.'s continuing war with Ottawa and said the people wanted a government which would co-operate with the federal authorities for a change.

Asked point-blank if the government had a plan for the introduction of a medical care program in B.C. Mr. Martin said the question was a leading and unfair one.

"We have already proved to the people that we can handle such a program," he stated.

Health Minister Amazed By Nephew's U.S. Move

Health Minister Eric Martin told the legislature yesterday he was amazed when he heard from a nephew who was going to leave British Columbia to take an internship in a San Francisco hospital because there weren't sufficient openings in B.C.

Mr. Martin said his department is now looking into the intern situation in B.C. hospitals.

Arthur Turner (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East) pointed out the problem was that interns in B.C. hospitals are not getting enough experience.

Electramatic Drive is offered on both the V-75 illustrated and the 40 hp.

First Electramatic Drive in Outboards:

Johnson's new electric clutch eliminates double-lever controls and makes single-lever operation foolproof

The invention of Electramatic Drive makes the Johnson V-75 and 40 Sea-Horse the most convenient-to-drive-outboards you can buy.

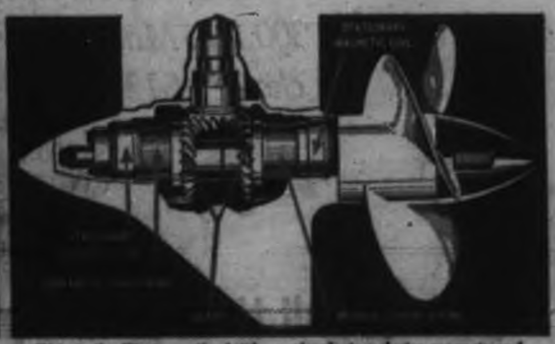
A single, foolproof lever controls the throttle and electrically engages the clutch. The pictures below show how the lever and clutch work. Push the lever forward to go ahead, back for reverse. The single-lever makes it impossible to move the wrong lever or race the motor in neutral. The clutch has two electro-magnets. One for forward, the other for reverse. As you move the single lever forward an electric contact is made. Instantly the clutch is activated. Move it back to neutral, and instantly the clutch cuts out. When you move the lever backwards, the other electro-magnet cuts in and back you go.

Will the electric clutch wear out? Hardly. Since electro-magnets have no moving parts, wear is virtually eliminated. And the electric clutch action is smooth, instant and totally silent.

Electramatic Drive is available on both the mighty V-75 (illustrated) and the Sea-Horse 40. Your Johnson Dealer can show you which of these powerful Sea-Horses offers the measure of power, dependability and economy you want. See him now.

Your Johnson dealer also carries a complete line of Sea-Horse accessories, including generator kits, power-tilt kits, radio-noise-suppression kits and propellers. With almost a thousand dealers across Canada, service is never a problem when you own a Johnson.

This is the foolproof, single-lever Electramatic control. Forward for ahead—back for reverse—neutral is in the middle.



This is the Electramatic clutch . . . simply two electro-magnets and two clutch springs. Smooth, fast, long-wearing.

Young Scientists Prepare for Fair

Hours of spare time work have been put into this 500,000-volt Van de Graaf generator by Ronald Porter, 14, of Lansdowne Junior High School. The entry will be shown at the annual science fair.

One of the exhibits to be entered in Colquitz Junior High School's science fair to be held later this month, is a model beaver house, built by Dorothy Muir, 12, 485 Obed, and Wendy Palfrey, 13, 4200 Glanford. The exhibit was also made in the girls' spare time.

Close examination is given by Jim Perry, 14, of Oak Bay Junior High School to his home-built electric furnace. School board officials are still undecided about allowing fair exhibits to be operated by students for safety reasons.—(Colonist photos by Ted Harris.)

Shrum Fails To Allay Shift Fears

City council's fears that B.C. Power Commission might shift its employees to Vancouver soon were not allayed yesterday by a note from Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the B.C. Electric Co.

SHIFT RUMORED

Council asked Mayor R. B. Wilson to write to Dr. Shrum recently, after rumors that the BCPC would shift its 500 employees to Vancouver when the commission merges with the B.C. Electric later this year. The commission's annual payroll is more than $1,000,000 a year.

'CONSIDERATION'

"So far as I am concerned, I wish to assure you that the points you have raised will be given very careful consideration," Dr. Shrum wrote.

"It will certainly be desirable to avoid any unnecessary transfers of personnel or disruption of their personal affairs," he said.

Celebration Society Approved

City council yesterday gave preliminary approval to a bylaw officially appointing six persons to the newly-formed Victoria Centennial Celebrations Society.

The bylaw will be finally adopted at the next meeting of council, in two weeks.

Persons named were P. D. P. Holmes, Douglas Fletcher, O. Glyn Jones, J. K. Nesbitt, Clifford Rutledge and Sam Lane.

The society has assumed the work of conducting the city's centennial celebrations from the informal committee which was doing the work.

DeMolay Week Proclamation

A proclamation declaring next week DeMolay Week will be signed by Mayor R. B. Wilson.

The move is in honor of the international boys' organization now celebrating its 43rd year. Victoria chapter has about 80 members.

Disease Threat

Pollution Danger Growing

By TED SHACKLEFORD

The provincial government is exposing British Columbia residents to a grave danger from contaminated water and the spreading of typhoid and hepatitis, according to Walter O'Keefe, B.C. manager of the Canadian Plumbing and Mechanical Contractors' Association.

"Greater Victoria has an adequate plumbing code, but surrounding areas have none," he said in an interview.

"It's no use having a 'clean' spot surrounded by a much larger 'dirty' spot—the clean spot gets contaminated by the highly infectious diseases from the surrounding area."

HARBOR HIT

Mr. O'Keefe pointed to Vancouver's inner harbor as an example of how pollution can occur.

"Vancouver's harbor is the largest cesspool in Canada," he said. "If all the contagious germs in the inlet each day were the size of oranges they would make a mountain the size of Mount Seymour (4,758 feet above the level of the harbor)."

Vancouver and federal authorities are spending $17,000,000 for a sewage plant, to remove the threat of pollution from English Bay and other beaches, he said, but North Vancouver is still permitted to dump raw sewage into the harbor.

Diseases which can result from poor plumbing include hepatitis, typhoid and enteric dysentery, Mr. O'Keefe said.

ALARMING RATE

"Hepatitis is spreading through British Columbia at an alarming rate," he said. "In the first eight months of 1961 there were 988 cases of the disease in the province.

"We have reason to believe it has tripled over the past seven months.

"The highest incidence of hepatitis appears in areas where there is no strict plumbing code or a lack of enforcement.

"In the northern Okanagan where there is no code, there were 21 cases in the first eight months of 1961. Since then, 100 additional cases have been reported."

Plan to Pay Less Move to Pay More

Offered a chance to pay less toward the cost of intermunicipal projects in future than it has paid in the past, city council yesterday initiated a move which could result in the city having to pay more.

NEW PLAN

In the past the city has paid 46.4 per cent of all intermunicipal costs. This was based on the city's population, which was estimated at 46.4 per cent of the population of Greater Victoria.

Under a new cost-sharing plan recommended to city council by Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee, the city's share would drop to 43.53 per cent.

The new plan is partly based on population, partly on taxable assessment values.

The assessment figures used in preparing the new plan do not include the value of federal property which is exempt from taxation.

But Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow yesterday suggested that the value of federal property should be included.

SHARE INCREASED

Federal property in Victoria includes the post office building. Esquimalt includes HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard. There is little or no federal property in Saanich and Oak Bay.

Effect of Ald. Edgelow's suggestion could be to increase the city's share over the 43.5 per cent suggested by the intermunicipal committee.

Commission Adamant

Broadside Launched At High-Rise Plans

A Calgary company's plans to build a $1,000,000 high-rise apartment building on Douglas Street, opposite Thunderbird Park, were under heavy attack yesterday.

City council's advisory planning commission registered wholesale opposition to the plan in a lengthy report to yesterday's meeting of council.

Company involved is Chartered Investments Ltd., which was recently entangled in an on-again-off-again deal with the city over purchase of a site on Kingston Street.

Chartered Investments is going ahead with construction of a high-rise apartment on Michigan Street and had planned to spread costs by constructing the threatened high-rise at the same time.

SIX POINTS

Council's advisory planning commission has objected to the proposed construction on six main points, but aldermen are not all convinced that the commission is right. The six points:

- Victoria's high-rise zone is in James Bay and is capable of handling the city's needs for up to 20 years.
- Basic plan in creating a high-rise zone was to develop James Bay.
- Any move to "extend" the zone will upset the program of construction.
- The property is too small for a building of the size proposed by the company.
- An unusual breakdown in the city's high-rise bylaw is making it temporarily possible for council to give permission to erect the building.
- Construction of the building is not "in the best visual interests" of the area.

"Nonsense," one alderman snorted after the meeting. "They said nothing about being outside the high-rise area when they approved the Spencer apartment plan off Cook Street.

"Besides, what program of construction will be upset? We don't have a program of construction."

The Spencer plan was to construct a 21-storey super-luxury apartment block near Smith's Hill Reservoir. It has been stalled by the promoters for some time.

The planning commission's recommendation has been sent to the city town planning and zoning committee for study and report back to city council.

Driver Blots Good Record

DUNCAN — Pleading guilty to impaired driving Andy Haryluck of Duncan was fined $75. Counsel for the accused asked court for leniency as Mr. Haryluck had a clean driving record for the past 30 years.

29 Drivers Charged For Lacking Plates

Twenty-nine Victoria motorists have been charged with failing to obtain 1962 licence plates for their cars before the deadline last week.

It was learned yesterday that the tardy motorists will pay fines ranging up to $25 for the oversight.

Rejection Deplored

Alderman Demands Art Gallery Grant

Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee should face up to its responsibilities and make a grant to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, Ald. A. W. Toone said yesterday.

BID REJECTED

He made the comment at city council meeting when told the intermunicipal committee had rejected an application for a grant by the art gallery and referred it to the individual municipalities.

"If there is any worthy cause in the community it is the art gallery, and it should be handled on an intermunicipal basis," Mayor R. B. Wilson commented.

'LACK OF INTEREST'

He said the main reason the intermunicipal committee refused to make a grant was "a lack of interest in culture."

"If there is a lack of interest in culture this is all the more reason for the committee to face up to its responsibilities," Ald. Toone said.

The question of a grant for the art gallery was referred to city finance committee.

Stout Drinker Dethrones Our Beer-Loving Andy

* * *

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

* * *

TRUE LIFE DRAMA: Most Colonist readers are acquainted with Andy Capp, that curious little Englishman who cavorts around our pages quaffing copious quantities of beer.

Andy, of course, is a cartoon character and one could be excused in thinking that a good deal of literary licence surrounds his abnormal capacity for downing suds.

Thanks to London's Daily Express, we can disclose that cartoon Andy is a piker compared with real-life "Twenty Pint Cecil."

Street trader Cecil Osborn of Wimbledon, England, drinks beer for breakfast, lunch and dinner—20 pints a day, all told.

"I've been drinking the stuff since I was five years old," he told an Express reporter. "My father started giving me stout then."

But Wimbledon magistrates refused to believe Cecil when he claimed: "Beer is my staple diet—it has no effect on me."

They fined him £30 and banned him from driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Replied Cecil: "I just don't understand it."

"I go to Covent Garden every morning and before I leave home I have two or three pints for breakfast—I never eat anything," he said. "When I get to the Garden I have another few pints. The pubs are open up there early in the morning. Then I have a few pints for lunch. Sometimes I have a sandwich or two but nothing very fancy. Beer is more food than food itself."

And when he goes home, 26-year-old Cecil takes beer with him to while away the evening.

His wife Lillian said: "I don't mind him drinking—he never misbehaves. But I won't buy beer for him. Honestly, it's impossible trying to keep this house clear of empties.

"I find them all over the house," she said. "I don't mind them in the kitchen and living room—but I draw a line at the bedroom. Mind you, if I let him, he'd drink there as well."

Andy Capp, move over . . .

SUCCESS STORY: Plaudits to the Victoria Kiwanis Club.

As a result of the column item here yesterday the club has agreed to donate a plaque commemorating the visit of USS Porter here in September of 1937. The ship brought U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt on a visit to the city.

The plaque was the last needed to complete the "parade of ships" project along the Causeway embankment.

MENTALITY QUESTIONED: When the opposition ranks began giving Health Minister Eric Martin a bad time yesterday, the minister threatened: "I'm quite prepared to have you all certified."

He could do it, too.

Mr. Martin is also minister in charge of mental health services in B.C.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: Friend of ours is quite disturbed at the labels on canned clams in local stores.

They are marketed as butter clams, but the pictures show the more delicious little-neck clams.

Our friend, who is a conservationist, rushed home to check his books because he thought his identification must be wrong, but came away more convinced than ever that the wrong type clams are pictured on the cans.

He still doesn't know what kind of clam is in the tins. His wife says they can't afford to buy a tin when they can dig clams any old time down at the beach!

'Problems Studied'

General Foulkes to Stand For City Liberal Nomination

Gen. Charles Foulkes, one-time chief of the Canadian general staff, announced yesterday he will stand for nomination as Liberal candidate in the Victoria federal constituency.

The party will hold its nominating convention here March 26.

In a statement, Gen. Foulkes said his 14 years of service as a senior official in Ottawa had given him a first-hand opportunity of observing "the complexity of the problems facing parliament and the government."

He added: "Issues, ranging from social security to defence are increasing in scope and intensity and adequate solutions are more difficult to find. I feel my long experience and proven ability should enable me to make a considerable contribution to parliament and to government."

Gen. Foulkes rose from the rank of captain to lieutenant-general during the Second World War and at 42—was appointed chief of the general staff.

Youngest officer ever appointed to the post, he continued to serve in that capacity until 1951, when he was appointed first chairman of chiefs of staff. There he remained until he asked to be retired in [illegible].

He was born in England in 1903 and was commissioned in the Royal Canadian Regiment in [illegible]. He went overseas with the 1st Canadian Infantry Division and led the 2nd Division in the invasion of France.

He took over the 2nd Canadian Corps in September, 1944, and fought the battle of Walcheren. He was appointed chief of staff in August, 1945, and guided the army through demobilization.

Scoreboard Blacked Out

Lansdowne Junior High School's new basketball scoreboard will have to be left in the closet until school board officials decide if it is safe or not.

The complex board, built by science students, has not been approved by the Canadian Standards Association, and so cannot be operated in the school.

School officials will be asked to have the provincial inspector of electrical energy check it.

Lenten Recipe

Fish with Dill Is Never Dull

Dill pickles, usually type-cast as a fish garnish, appear in a new role. In fish fillets with dill pickles they bake between layers of flaky fillets which are set off by a spirited cheese sauce.

Many dishes now considered basic Canadian fare are not necessarily English or French, but the result of the contributions of Canadians of many cultural backgrounds. They have given to our tables the delight of the mingled flavors of spices and seasonings characteristic of the lands of their origin. This is particularly true of fish . . a favorite in millions of homes around the world. And fish and shellfish are nearly always served with a tasty sauce or other flavorful accessory.

Dill pickles are often used as a garnish for fish dishes. This time they appear in a new role, sandwiched between layers of fillets which are set off by a cheese sauce with the spirited stamp of mustard and Worcestershire.

FISH FILLETS WITH DILL PICKLES

One and a half pounds fish fillets, haddock, cod, pickerel, etc., 2 to 3 medium dill pickles, thinly sliced, 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, ½ cup grated process Canadian cheese, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ⅛ teaspoon garlic salt (optional).

If fillets are frozen, allow to thaw slightly on refrigerator shelf. Arrange half of fillets in shallow baking dish. Cover with dill pickle slices; top with remaining fillets. Brush with melted butter; sprinkle with salt and nutmeg. Bake in hot oven preheated to 450 deg. F. until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork—about ten minutes per inch thickness of fish. This will take approximately eight to fifteen minutes. Meanwhile, melt butter or margarine; blend in flour; gradually stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened and smooth. Add remaining ingredients, cook over low heat until cheese is melted. Place fillets on hot platter; pour cheese sauce on top. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an attractive matron with a devoted husband, lovely children, beautiful home, and many advantages which I fully appreciate. I also have a perpetual heartache. I can't forget the fellow I was in love with during my college days.

Please don't say this is ridiculous. I know it. I've been successful in pushing the memories out of my mind for several days at a time. Then they return, stronger than ever.

I haven't seen this man in years but I know he lives in a city about 300 miles away. I've considered going to see him (casually of course) hoping that one look will put an end to my foolishness. But I'm afraid he may be more attractive than ever and then I'd be in for real trouble.

I need advice from someone who is sane. It is obvious that I am—AN ADDLE-BRAINED LADY.

Dear Addle-Brained Lady: The man in your mind is nothing like the fellow you knew in college and even less like the guy who lives 300 miles away. The years have screened out all his undesirable traits and magnified his attractive qualities.

And small wonder you envision him as such a dreamboat — the only contact you have with him is in your head. If you had to live with this man—in the world of reality—washing his socks, picking up his clothes, putting up with his relatives, nursing his hangovers and stretching his paycheck you'd soon come down to earth.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Frugal Fanny had better be careful or she may be sitting it out in jail or paying a costly fine. I refer to the woman who thought it was perfectly O.K. to drop Christmas cards into the mail boxes of the apartment tenants and thus save the price of the stamps.

For her — and for other Frugal Fannies who may be entertaining such notions here is the law:

United States Criminal Code: Section 1725, Title 18. "Whosoever knowingly and wilfully deposits any mailable matter . . . on which no postage has been paid . . . with intent to avoid payment of lawful postage thereon, shall for each such offence be fined not more than $300." — UNCLE'S LITTLE HELPER.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I took your advice 18 months ago and you solved my problem. But you created a problem worse than the one you solved. I'm sorry I listened to you.

My husband was a heavy drinker. He had a heart of gold but he could never quite make it home on payday with his cheque.

You suggested Alcoholics Anonymous. Well it worked. He hasn't touched a drop in over a year, but I liked him better the other way.

He has become very tight with money—won't even buy himself a lunch. He walks to work to save bus fare. He wants me to account for every dime I spend, even though I work and earn almost as much as he does. He doesn't have a sense of humor anymore and he isn't any fun. At least when he was drinking he was jolly. What do you say now?—MAD AT YOU.

Dear Mad: I say you have a pretty short memory. I remember your letter well and it was pathetic. Your husband used to forget where he lived and you had to go out at night checking the saloons to bring him home. You were a nervous wreck and had a terrible time holding your job because you were up all night with him.

His drinking was beginning to affect his health and you were afraid he would lose his job because of absenteeism. And you're complaining because he isn't jolly? Now you're the one who is sick!

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, March 8th—When it's blowy and blustery outside, I like to begin the day with something warm and substantial for breakfast—and I can't think of anything better than piping-hot RED RIVER CEREAL. Red River is as nourishing as it's delicious, with that wholesome blend of cracked wheat, rye and flax. You'll find it easy to prepare—cooks in just a few minutes. Costs so little, too! So see that your family gets the benefits of Red River often. Active youngsters and adults need its extra energy values and it guards regularity—it is 'nature's mild regulator'. Yes, a Red River breakfast is the best way to fortify your family against a blustery morning.

YOU'LL WELCOME SPRING SUNSHINE if you've given your skin a fighting chance this winter . . . by using CALGON BOUQUET in your bath and for face-and-hands washing. Calgon Bouquet is a wonderful bath conditioner that helps your favourite soap wash cleaner, while it pampers your skin. I know because I'm a long-time (love it!) Calgon Bouquet user . . . and what a morale-building difference it can make! I use Calgon Bouquet in my shampoo, too . . . one teaspoonful in water helps sudsing, one teaspoonful in first rinse leaves hair soft and shiny as silk. Do treat yourself to the morale-building, beauty luxury of Spring-fresh Calgon Bouquet!

HERE'S HOW TO GET THOSE FLOORS DONE IN A HURRY . . . beautifully, thoroughly done . . . with hard-working SUNLIGHT SOAP. Nothing tackles floors and walls like Sunlight—and it never, never scratches or mars. Sunlight is best for fine laundry, too. I always rub a little Sunlight Soap on extra dirty spots, like shirt collars and cuffs—before washing them. Spots come out like magic! Yes, Sunlight Soap does so many good, hard jobs of cleaning, yet it's wonderfully kind to hands and fabrics. That's because it's pure soap . . . the purest you can buy . . . yet it costs less than any other bar soap or cleaner. A real buy!

HERE'S THE VALUE OF THE YEAR . . . a treat for both your pocketbook and your taste! When you buy your next supply of LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT, you get this SPECIAL OFFER . . . with any four Libby labels and just $4.00 you can get an 8-piece table setting of the famous, unbreakable Melmac dinnerware and stainless steel cutlery with hand-polished imported wood handles. - bread and butter plate
- fork, knife, spoon
- cup and saucer
- soup bowl

Start collecting now! And remember, you get this regular $10.20 retail value for just $4.00 plus any 4 Libby labels . . . and you save even more when you order additional settings at the same time . . . simply get tear-off coupons at your grocer's next time you buy Libby's Sauerkraut!

IT'S A WONDERFUL WAY TO FEEL MERRY! There's still nearly ten months to go until Christmas, but I've got that "Merry Christmas" feeling already. You see, yesterday I visited the BANK OF MONTREAL and opened a special Christmas Savings Account to take care of my holiday expenses when that wonderful season rolls around again. I figured out the money I would need. Then divided the amount by the number of pays left. That amount will go into this special account each pay-day until it's time to start my Christmas shopping. Imagine—Christmas shopping without worrying about the cost. I feel so merry I can hardly wait!

Mr. and Mrs. LeBus Married at Home

A pretty home wedding was held recently at 906 Falaise Crescent when Padre H. Todd officiated at the service before the fireplace banked with spring flowers. Principals were Miss Barbara Jean Percy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hunter, 730 Violet Avenue, and Mr. Douglas LeBus, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. LeBus, 2631 Blackwood Avenue.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Hunter, wore a dress of emerald green nylon taffeta and matching hat. Her corsage was of gardenias and her triple strand of pearls was a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Nadine LeBus was matron of honor and wore a beige linen dress with matching hat and corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Orie LeBus was best man.

The wedding and reception were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Poulson. The bride's table was centred with a two-tiered cake flanked with sprays of flowers.

After a honeymoon up-Island Mr. and Mrs. LeBus will make their home at 1590 Mortimer Street.

Mrs. L. M. Darrah came from Vancouver for the wedding.

Eleanor Coward Bride Of Kenneth E. Wright

St. Paul's United Church, Sidney, was decorated with spring flowers and guest seats were marked with heather sent from Scotland for the wedding of Eleanor Jane Coward and Kenneth E. Wright on Saturday.

Miss Coward is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coward, 9757 Fifth Street, Sidney, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wright, Auburn, Wash.

Rev. C. H. Whitmore conducted the double-ring ceremony.

A traditional white wedding gown of classic simplicity was chosen by the lovely bride. The bodice, designed with a rounded neckline and brief sleeves, was on guipure lace over satin. The princess lines of the slipper satin skirt fell from a high empire waistline, emphasized with a narrow satin fold, and swept into a short train. The bride's tulle veil, edged with lace, cascaded to her waist from a tiny pearl coronet. She carried a bouquet of white roses centred with a mauve orchid corsage.

Miss Ina Corbett of Victoria attended as maid-of-honor, and Miss Patricia Wilson of Seattle and Miss Dorothy Wood of Sidney as bridesmaids. Vicki Coward, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a short, bouffant-skirted dress of embroidered pink organdy, matching flowered headband. She carried a basket of pink and white carnations.

The three senior attendants were gowned alike in soft chiffon dresses in pale turquoise. They wore satin shoes, tiny flowered hats with circular veils and their bouquets were of pink and white carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and the groom was attended by Ross Weaver of Auburn, Wash. as best man. The ushers were Rod Coward, brother of the bride, and Donald Wright, brother of the groom.

For the reception, Sanscha Hall was decorated with greenery and daffodils. The table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, tied with beautifully decorated bride's tartan ribbon and heather. Master of ceremonies for the reception was the bride's cousin, W. J. Coward of Victoria, and Bud Langille of Seattle proposed the toast.

For their honeymoon trip the bride changed to a soft wool tweed suit, in Scotch mist shade, matching accessories, and accented with an orchid corsage. On returning Mr. and Mrs. Wright will spend several days in Sidney before taking up residence in Auburn, Washington.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wright and Mr. and Mrs. D. Wright of Auburn, Washington, Bud Langille of Seattle, Wash.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

Far, far back in television's distant past, there was a man named Milton Berle—a sort of buck-toothed Jack Paar, the king of television.

Uncle Miltie's program was THE show. He was the top banana of the early TV comedians. And naturally, he faded away like everybody else.

Berle went down fighting. His last gasp was as MC of Jackpot Bowling, where he managed to get in everybody's way and set a new record for freestyle bad jokes.

Tonight at 9.30 on channel 5, Uncle Miltie tries again, heading an hour-long variety show. With him will be Jack Benny, Lena Horne, Laurence Harvey and Janis Paige.

It's strictly a one-shot deal for Uncle Miltie, who has never given up the idea of getting back his own show. It will be interesting to see if he's come up with anything new.

DOLS':
Impregnated FLANNEL
For:
RHEUMATISM & KINDRED AILMENTS
BRONCHITIS, CHEST & THROAT TROUBLES
CHILBLAINS & COLD FEET
The makers have received many spontaneous letters written by people who had endured continuous pain for years, and who—prior to using Dols' Flannel—had expended large sums of money and much time on so-called cures and remedies, without relief. These and other long-standing cases have been completely relieved; many happy wearers of Dols' Flannel describe the properties of this fabric as 'simply miraculous.'

Lawrence Rosler of Murry Hill, N.J., with Roger Stern of New York, scored 172 of a possible 200 to tie Terence Reese-Claude Rodrique of England for the high in the World Par Olympiad. The tie was broken in favor of the English pair, but the young Americans were second in the world and tops in the North American zone. The hands for the World Par Olympiad were prepared by M. J. O'Sullivan and R. E. Williams of Australia and included several excellent defence problems. On this deal, it is clear to West that he must try to force South to trump, but many players would fail to see the right way to carry out the plan.

The bidding shown is the sequence recommended by the contest's organizers. A double is not usually right with a single-suited hand, and North might have done better to make a strong jump to three diamonds. He has seven playing tricks, and the bid would serve to put pressure on the opponents. Over the actual double, East might consider jumping to three hearts. Such a raise after an opposing double should always be regarded as pre-emptive, and East's void is very strong in support of hearts.

The North-South hands look good for twelve tricks, but the bad spade break, together with good defence can hold South to ten tricks. After West holds the first trick, it seems that he should continue with a high heart to weaken declarer's trumps. If he does, the contract succeeds, because South simply discards a club and retains control of the hand.

The winning defence is for West to lead a low heart at trick two. Declarer cannot afford to allow East on lead at this point, for a diamond ruff would defeat him at once. South must therefore ruff to avoid the diamond ruff, and then, paradoxically, lead the diamond ace. If West falls for this trap, there is no defence. So West refuses to ruff until the third or fourth round of diamonds. When he does trump, he must play a club to remove the entry on the board and declarer must lose a further trick.

Navy Tapes Them

Talking Whales Now!

They Yodel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Porpoises have been getting all the publicity, but perhaps whales can talk, too.

At least the navy has recorded three killer whales in what could have been a three-way conversation.

As reproduced on magnetic tape, the whales sound a little like Swiss yodelers.

Their most characteristic noise is a sort of "eee-aw-eee" with the "eee" on a high, sustained pitch and the "aw" dropping down an octave or two lower.

Other comparisons might be the sound you get trying to tune in a short wave radio set, or Jack Benny tuning up his violin.

The point is, navy experts said, that there is sufficient variation in the sounds to indicate they could be a kind of animal conversation.

Moreover, the recording showed, with three whales present, only one "talked" at a time. Then another came in as though replying to the first.

In this respect, the navy experts said, the three-whale exchange was somewhat better than the average three-way human conversation.

The recording, made at the navy's sound range at Dabob Bay, near Seattle, has attracted the attention of high-ranking officers, including the chief of naval operations.

* * *

The navy is studying underwater sounds as part of its program for developing devices to detect submarines and other man-made vessels.

Further tests are planned to determine whether a code of speech pattern can be detected in the whale recording.

3,000,000 Tickets Seized

Lottery Printers Hit By Police Crackdown

MONTREAL (CP)—A police crackdown on hockey and bowling lotteries is starting to hit operators where it hurts the most — in their underground printing plants.

In the last three weeks, police here have arrested 20 persons on various charges. Police raids on hidden printing plants and lottery headquarters have resulted in the impounding of more than 3,000,000 lottery tickets.

Retail value of the tickets is generally 25 cents, with some going as high as $1 and a few at 10 cents.

Police said they are concentrating on the major sources of tickets and the big operators because it would be too difficult to put the pressure on the small office pools or sellers.

NO EFFECTS

Police sources said that because of the systems used it is unlikely that the lotteries could have an effect on the scores of hockey games and bowling matches on which they are based.

EXACT TIME

For example, the most popular hockey lottery in Montreal is based on the exact time—to the minute and second—of the last goal scored in a Saturday night National Hockey League game here.

Scott Letter

Argue Asked To Explain His Defection

Recent switch of Hazen Argue from the New Democratic to the Liberal benches in the House of Commons has caused concern to Victoria NDP "stormy petrel" W. A. (Bill) Scott.

Mr. Scott has been moved to write two letters—one to Mr. Argue himself, one to Thomas Berger, president of the B.C. NDP.

FOUR QUESTIONS

In the first, he asks Mr. Argue four questions: Does he think T. C. Douglas, NDP leader, has permitted himself to become a "financial prisoner-of-war to labor"? What does he consider his first loyalty, his constituents or his party?

Does he think the farmers will support labor after labor struck against the farmers in the 1960 Vancouver grain elevator strike? Does he think labor had the moral right to strike in that case, since it was farmers who founded the Saskatchewan CCF party?

EARLY REPLIES

Mr. Scott asked Mr. Argue for early replies.

In his letter to Mr. Berger, Mr. Scott took the B.C. leader to task because he attacked Mr. Argue for doing what Winston Churchill and Mr. Berger himself had both done. He invited a public debate on the issue.

Who's Who Not Necessarily Who's News

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's new Who's Who was published yesterday and Elvis Presley can save the seven pounds ($19.60) the 1962 edition cost.

He has not been able to shake, rattle, roll or twist himself into this most authoritative of the reference books of people who have arrived.

Instead, the world of pop music is represented by two aging gentlemen, Francis Albert Sinatra and Harry L. Crosby.

Presley sells more records and has a more limber bone structure than either Frankie or Bing. But by the mysterious standards of Who's Who he is still years away from the accolade.

Who's Who asks its thousands of celebrities to list their "recreations" and, as usual, this provides an intriguing window into the odd world of the famous at leisure.

Among those who provide this information is Sir Osbert Stiwell, dean of the noted family of poets and authors who spends his spare time, he says, "listening to the sound of his own voice, preferably on gramophone records, and not answering letters."

His equally celebrated sister, Dame Edith Sitwell, gives her recreation as: "Silence."

* * *

Consider the chief magistrate of London, Sir Robert Blundell. His recreation, listed as "deipnosophism," emerges from the dictionary as a lover and student of dining well.

Author Denzil Batchelor admits that his hobby is "in-law baiting."

Poet John Pudney, asked his recreation, simply wrote, "Bonfires."

There is a strange story behind Lord Kilbracken's confession that his recreation is gambling. Some years ago, when a student at Oxford, he had an extraordinary series of dreams in which he saw horses winning races or was told they had won by someone in his dream.

* * *

He discovered that he was dreaming about horses the night before they were scheduled to run. He bet his dreams and had fellow students do likewise and they almost broke the bookies.

Kilbracken claims he lost the gift because he commercialized it by writing a book about his experiences.

Bouquets, Brickbats Greet Canadian Play

LONDON (CP) — Canadian playwright Ted Allan scores two hits and several wide misses in critical notices of his play, The Secret of the World, which opened at the Theatre Royal in east London.

Bernard Levin, in The Daily Express, says it is the best contemporary play he has seen in nearly two years.

The theme deals with a Jewish-Canadian trade unionist in Montreal. A Communist, he slowly loses his faith, his job and finally his mind after Stalin's downfall in 1956.

"It has faults galore and some of them are big ones," says Levin. "But the play has stature, passion, above all size. It is a play to measure other plays by."

The Daily Mail's Robert Muller said: "This is a play that cries out to be seen. Let those of you who claim to love the theatre stand up now and be counted."

'SECOND-GRADE'

Montreal-born Allan "handles the theme with a naivete that leaves us gasping with incredulity," says The Times.

The Guardian's Philip Hope-Wallace considers it "only a second-grade family affair scarcely leavened by some adventurous political points".

Allan loses himself "in the babblings of insanity and goes down to defeat in a confusion of aims and irrelevancies," says The Herald's David Nathan.

At the Galleries

Large Size, Color Rule Art Biennial

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

The fourth Biennial of Canadian Art is now occupying the four main galleries and when you go to see the exhibition, be prepared for some quite startling changes in the work of many of our favorite painters.

They have exploded into size and unrestrained use of color.

This has been building up for some time now as the abstract painters appear to be reaching the end of their way and are frantically seeking for something new to take hold of.

* * *

Harold Town's Banners dominates the show by its size and strident color. I am a great admirer of his work but I cannot pretend to be either moved or impressed by this canvas.

Tom Hodgson is another painter who appears to have overreached himself. The canvas is large but the content does not justify either the size or the uninspired use of the paint.

* * *

Tony Urquhart on the other hand has produced a richly satisfying quality of paint and good integration in his contribution.

There is change on every side. Bruno Bobak, who for so many years used a very limited palette, is now wallowing in brilliant color and Gordon Smith concentrates on small areas of bright color in a sea of whites.

Ronald Bloore uses no color but expresses movement in a radiating pattern of manipulated paint. Red is used gorgeously in Gerald Trottier's Golgotha.

It is nice to see Margaret Peterson's The New Star holding its own by its color and pattern.

This is a large show and the most important of the juried shows in Canada.

Up to 1960 it was by invitation of the National Gallery but last year it was thrown open to amateur and professional painters in Canada.

More than 1,800 entries were received from which 60 paintings and 40 graphics were selected by a panel of distinguished critics and teachers.

LAWREN HARRIS
... violent reactions

* * *

Victim Claimed:

I'm a Muscleman

VANCOUVER (CP) — A United States police chief said Thursday that Vancouver shooting victim Clayton Thomas Stratton claimed to be a paid union muscleman.

Chief Harry Kochanek of Port Angeles, Wash., said he knew Stratton personally and the 42-year-old man often boasted to friends he got paid for beating up a picket line member in Vancouver.

He said Stratton did not mention what organization paid him.

Chief Kochanek's disclosure came as Vancouver police examined a home-made bomb found Wednesday in Stratton's apartment. Police said it was capable of blowing a car to bits.

Stratton was shot to death Tuesday night by his own gun after he broke into the downtown home of Gustave Strathie. Strathie told police he was pistol-whipped but managed to disarm Stratton. Then the weapon discharged twice, the first bullet killing Stratton and the second whistling past a second intruder who fled.

Police are still looking for the second man.

Chief Kochanek said Stratton had been working for several months as a longshoreman before he announced he was leaving for a union job in Vancouver.

Offending New Art Trends Are Smoothed Out by Time

By BOB TRIMBEE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Anything new in art often is offensive to an onlooker until he becomes accustomed to it, says Lawren Harris, famed Canadian painter and a prime leader of the Group of Seven.

"As a matter of fact, all art is a series of reactions both from within the painter and the onlooker. The impressionist style of the Group of Seven produced violent reactions at first, then gradualy people became accustomed to it and it was accepted.

SAME TREND

"The same trend existed when abstracts first appeared. Even among artists there was violent reaction because no two people react alike to a painting.

"Modern painting allows an artist to express any subject. Often it is a turmoil of colors, but when features are pointed out and the connection related it can be understood."

STILL LEADER

Harris, now 76 and still the acknowledged leader of Canada's school of modernistic artists, has not let age interfere with his search for new means of expression in art. Neither has it diminished the rebel qualities that have often made him a centre of controversy.

SEEKS NEW FIELDS

At an age when most men stop to reflect on past accomplishments, Harris continues to seek new fields of artistic expression.

"My work has gone beyond abstractions. There's no way of telling what the next step is. When I begin a work today I have no idea what the finished product will look like until I'm almost finished.

"The key is design. You relate colors and gradually the subject or thing develops."

An assiduous painter, usually on a large scale, Harris works in a large, bright den on the ground floor of his two-storey home in the university district. In appearance he is distinctive and impressive with a mass of white hair.

NO TROUBLE

Originally a landscapist, he later turned to non-objective compositions.

"I have no trouble working from one to another. In line and in color I believe there is a great similarity between modernistic art and that of the old masters."

Lawren Stewart Harris was born in Brantford, Ont., in 1885, the son of Thomas Harris and Annie Stewart. His family was one of the Massey-Harris farm implement manufacturers.

He studied art in Germany from 1908 to 1911, returning to this continent to accept a job as an illustrator with a New York magazine. He returned to Canada a year later, painting street scenes and old houses in the slums and outskirts of Toronto.

NOT BURDENED

Harris was not burdened by the financial worries that plagued many of his companions. He helped finance construction of the Studio Building in Toronto, which served as a headquarters for the Group of Seven.

The group, the most noted Canadian art body, was an informal association and did not exist in the sense of an organized society. Its members shunned established European art techniques to develop their own distinctive Canadian style.

Manhunt Ends

Bad-Meat Suspects Give Up to Police

TORONTO (UPI)—A nationwide manhunt by the RCMP ended yesterday with the surrender of two Toronto "cattle buyers" wanted on charges of selling dead animal meat as food.

Charles Bannerman and Eugene L. McCarron, both 62, were accompanied by a lawyer when they gave themselves up at RCMP headquarters here.

FOUR CHARGES

The pair, sought for several weeks on four charges of selling meat from dead animals for human consumption, were freed on $2,000 cash bail after being photographed and fingerprinted.

The Mounties issued warrants Wednesday after investigators discovered 32,000 pounds of spoiled meat had been sold in one month to a Toronto firm. Most of it was processed into cold meats.

Bannerman and McCarron had eluded the RCMP since January. At first they were believed to be in Florida, but attempts to trace them there failed. When they surrendered they told police they had been in Fort Erie, Ont.

The two men are the 15th and 16th persons arrested since they launched a province-wide crackdown on sales of tainted meat early this year.

TAINTED MEAT

Among those arrested in a January 5 raid on operations involving an estimated 100 tons of tainted meat a month was Brantford Veterinarian Dr. Ormond C. Raymond. He has since been suspended as director of food control and sanitation for the Brant County health unit.

U.S. Atom Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission Thursday conducted its 21st underground nuclear weapons test of the current series at its Nevada site.

Woman Nude Prisoner 10 Months in Apartment

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said Thursday they are investigating the story of a woman who claims she was kept nude in an apartment for 10 months by a man who tried to force her into prostitution.

Lieut. Emile Ducharme said that at first the story sounded unbelievable but six men now had come forward to corroborate the woman's claims. The men said they had been taken to the apartment where the woman was being kept, but fled because of her screams.

Police said it appears clear the woman could have called them earlier. She said she loved the man who held her captive, although she did not wish to submit to prostitution.

The woman claimed the man turned off the heat in the apartment and tried other things in an effort to break her will.

Names of the man and woman were not disclosed.

Quebec Refuses Power Grid Bid

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec government has flatly turned down an invitation by Prime Minister Diefenbaker to attend a federal-provincial conference on a national power grid, Premier Jean Lesage disclosed yesterday.

Mr. Lesage tabled in the legislature correspondence between himself and Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker said seven of the 10 provinces had agreed to be represented at the meeting. Newfoundland had not been heard from and British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett had indicated he would allow some of his province's power to be used in the grid, but said the matter should first be discussed by the provincial premiers.

Mr. Lesage said Quebec is ready to discuss the matter with other provinces but "not under the tutelage of the federal government."

Wiser's whiskies are older in virtually all cases!

Older to Wiser's means aged in wood, not merely the date-stamp on the bottle. It means "married in wood" which is a process of returning the spirits to wood after final blending—for a further period of quiet aging. It means "lighter," smoother flavour acquired naturally—through patient aging. For the best whiskies, drink one that's older and Wiser's

EXAMPLE:
Wiser's De Luxe—a light mellow Canadian whisky—10 years old.

Wiser's well-aged whiskies: Wiser's De Luxe, 10 years old, Wiser's 101, 6 years old, Wiser's Special Blend, 4 years old.

Fight in Gutter Over Defence For 'Buddy'

When police arrived, Oliver Michael Biolle and Lawrence Sawchuch were rolling, stripped to the waist, in the gutter, hauling out clumps of each other's hair. A large crowd had gathered in front of the downtown hotel to watch.

In court yesterday morning, the two gladiators glowered at each other and mumbled "guilty" to charges of creating a disturbance by fighting.

Magistrate William Ostler wanted to know what all the rumpus was about.

"He," Mr. Biolle said, jerking a thumb in the direction of Mr. Sawchuch, "was picking on my buddy and I tried to stop him."

"Humph," said Mr. Sawchuch.

"Fined $25 each," said Mr. Ostler.

Neither Mr. Biolle nor Mr. Sawchuch gave a permanent address.

* * *

F. J. Moulson, at 19 one of the youngest admitted beggars to appear in the dock in recent months, didn't have a permanent address either.

A police plainclothes constable told court young Moulson had tried to beg a dime and had been apprehended. He was bound over on his own recognizance to keep the peace.

R. A. Budynski, 22, fared less well. He tried to touch the plainclothes constable for the price of half a bottle of wine and was arrested instead.

Budynski agreed with the magistrate who warned him he was heading for serious trouble.

He was sentenced to one month in jail.

* * *

David Russell, no fixed address, was sentenced to nine months in the young offenders' unit after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of cheque forgery.

Russell admitted he had drawn a bogus cheque for $70 on the Bank of Montreal.

He received a similar term, to run concurrently, after entering a guilty plea to an identical offence in Saanich court yesterday afternoon.

Farmers Prefer Easy Job

WINNIPEG (CP)—A federal resources official said Thursday farmers are reluctant to change into other work because it would be difficult to find another job with so little to do. B. H. Christjanson, secretary for the Resources for Tomorrow Conference in Ottawa, said governments ran into problems convincing farmers to leave uneconomic farm units.

Army General Will Visit Special Units

A visit to special militia training groups here will be paid by Maj.-Gen. W. A. B. Anderson, adjutant general to the Canadian Army, Thursday morning.

He will be accompanied by Brig. E. D. Danby, B.C. area commander, and Col. John Delamere, director of militia from Ottawa.

Prior to his appointment as adjutant general, Gen. Anderson was commandant of the Royal Military College in Kingston, Ont.

Psychiatrists believe there is a close relationship between suppressed anger and high blood pressure.

Porkers in the Pink Just Have No Germs

OTTAWA (CP) — The specific-pathogen-free pig is motherless but hygienic. He hasn't a germ.

About 50 of these little porkers in the absolute pink have been raised since October by the Animal Diseases Research Institute of the federal agriculture department, a report said Thursday.

NO DISEASES

The purpose is a herd devoid of all disease-causing organisms. Then research can proceed without complications that could interfere with research work on a specific disease.

Project SPF — for specific pathogen free—seeks more of them than the 13 litters so far. Each has been born by caesarean section to avoid infection.

GROW SLOWLY

This tends to make the piglets grow more slowly for the first month than those who stay with their mothers. The first two weeks of life also are critical for the SPF pig because he lacks disease-fighting antibodies in the blood.

The SPF piglets are delivered and spend the first week of life in individual sterilized cages bathed in a steady flow of warmed and purified air.

WEEK IN CAGE

After a week in the cage and a diet of sterilized diluted condensed milk, the piglets are put in a brooder with a heated floor. At the end of the second week, gradually non-sterilized solid foods appear in the shape of dry feed pellets while vitamins are added to the drinking water. The routine handling begins after four weeks when the pigs have developed resistence to disease and are germ-free.

Plane Crash Kills Two In Alberta

MORNINGSIDE, Alta. (CP) —Two Edmonton men were killed when their light civilian aircraft crashed Thursday two miles west of this community about [illegible] miles south of Edmonton.

RCMP identified the victims as James A. Rose, 34, and John Zolmer, 30.

Wrong Body Viewed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A funeral director was still explaining Thursday how came the wrong body was on view at a funeral.

Friends of the late Walter Inglis looked at the body on view in a casket Wednesday without realizing it wasn't the man they knew.

Inglis' widow looked at the body and collapsed.

The funeral director said a coffin similar to that of the deceased had been placed on view by mistake.

He gave mourners an opportunity to go back and view the right body.

Four Children Die In Blazing Home

TELEGRAPH CREEK, B.C. (CP) — Four children burned to death in their home Thursday when a glass coal oil lamp fell from a table, shattered and set the building afire.

A 10-year-old baby sitter and three other children escaped.

Parents of the children were visiting at other homes on the Indian reserve, 250 miles south of Whitehorse, Y.T., when the fire started.

Killed were four-year-old Connie Quock, her two-year-old sister Patsy and her one-year-old sister Joyce, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Quock of Telegraph Creek.

Also killed was Lena Quash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Quash of Telegraph Creek.

The house was destroyed.

An inquest has been called but no date was set.

Worker Dies In Steel Vat

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — Welder Charles E. Junkinson, 34, of Niagara Falls, Ont., died Thursday from burns suffered when he fell into an empty but still hot molten steel vat.

Pakistan's Second Five-Year Plan intends to increase milk supplies for Karachi, Dacca and Lahore.

Concurrent Term

Swindle Brings Caldough Sentence of Six Years

VANCOUVER (CP) — Self-styled "boy promoter" George Caldough Thursday was sentenced to six years in connection with a $385,000 oil and gas stock conspiracy.

The sentence is concurrent with an earlier six-year sentence in connection with the same stock operation.

FALSE STATEMENTS

A jury earlier found Caldough, Roland Smith of Sheffield, England, and Great Northwest Investments (Yukon) Limited, Eagle Plains Developments and Mt. Baker Investments Limited guilty of making false statements.

FINED $10,000

All but Eagle Plains were found guilty of publishing false statements. Smith and the three companies were also convicted of conspiracy.

Smith was sentenced to four years and the three firms fined $10,000 each.

Mr. Justice H. A. McLean told Caldough and Smith: "You have been found guilty of taking part in a gigantic swindle, of common cheating, which is one of the lowest forms of human behavior. The public must be protected from people of your type."

Army Unit Wins Competition

Maj. H. C. P. Green, commander of 158 Company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, reported this week his unit has won the first leg of the Commonwealth Shield proficiency competition over a Vancouver unit.

The militia unit will compete later in March with RCASC units from Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

'Heroic' School Plans

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian conference on education yesterday heard a call for "heroic measures" to meet the unemployment crisis, particularly in the field of training and retraining children and adults for vocational work.

A conference forum that spent two days discussing education and employment declared:

"A strenuous and sustained program should be undertaken immediately by federal and provincial governments, by educationists and all interested organizations to alert the public to the urgency of developing a more competent work force."

Elementary school teachers should be equipped to introduce children to the world of work and must have a broad, non-discriminatory attitude toward all types of occupations.

"A great deal can be done to ease the placement of those at present unemployed through adequate upgrading, training and improvement of employed people within their present areas of occupation . . . If the present employed people are trained to fill skilled jobs, there will be more room in the semi-skilled and unskilled areas for people now unemployed."

Lord's Day Act Opposes 'Freedom of Religion'

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI)—A lawyer yesterday challenged the Lord's Day Act as contrary to Canada's Bill of Rights.

Sydney Paikin argued the act made all Canadians observe one religion, and thus was contrary to the Bill of Rights section guaranteeing religious freedom.

Paikin was contesting $25 fines imposed on two men for running a bowling alley after the Sunday closing hour.

Army Officer?

Green Admits Recall

'Violation' In Indochina

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green admitted under sharp opposition questioning Thursday that at least one Canadian serving in Indochina with the international truce commissions has been brought home for violating Canadian law.

Outside the Commons, a source said the case involved the acceptance of money by an army officer to smuggle narcotics into Canada. The source said that possibly other army officers are involved.

It is understood that Canadians in Viet Nam have frequently been approached with offers ranging up to $50,000 to take home with them at the end of their year's tour of duty packages of narcotics for delivery to a contact in Canada.

DECLINED TO REPLY

An army spokesman declined to reply to any questions on the matters, referring them all to the external affairs department.

The spokesman said he knew, however, that there has been no court martial in connection with any such case.

Mr. Green said in the Commons that it would "not be in the public interest to go any further."

REGIER QUESTION

He was asked by Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) whether any Canadians have been brought home from Indochina for other than normal reasons such as leave.

Mr. Regier asked whether any report has ever been issued by the government "as to why a Canadian official was murdered in this area?"

The apparent reference was to the stabbing murder of A. E. L. Cannon in Saigon, South Viet Nam, April 12, 1957. He was serving with the external affairs department and was a member of the Viet Nam truce commission.

NO REPORT

Mr. Green said: "I have no report on that particular incident."

Mr. Regier: "Have any Canadians, either from the department of national defence, been sent home for reasons other than the normal reasons of leave, furlough, etc.? If so, for

Forced to Move West, Court Told

Unauthorized Ship Invaded Target Area of Skeena

By IAN STREET

An unauthorized vessel entered the firing area in Juan de Fuca Strait while HMCS Skeena and other warships were carrying out firing exercises Jan. 29, a naval court martial was told yesterday.

Cmdr. Richard H. Leir, skipper of the Skeena, is charged with negligence and "an act to the prejudice of good order and discipline" resulting from the incident which rained shell fragments on the logging community of Clallam Bay, Wash.

He pleaded innocent to the charges.

IN FIRING AREA

The five-man court was told that on Jan. 29, during the firing exercises the federal government ship Oshawa entered the firing area and subsequently ignored a radio message to return to the safety of Jordan River.

Defence counsel Lloyd McKenzie put the circumstances of the alleged incident to witnesses in hypothetical form. But he assured the court that evidence to back up his contention fully will be entered by the defence.

SOUTHWEST CORNER

The "hypothetical incident" outlined by Mr. McKenzie stemmed from the presence of two destroyer-escorts and two frigates carrying out simultaneous surface and anti-aircraft shoots in the 10-mile wide strait.

The frigates carried out a surface shoot at the eastern end of the firing area while Skeena and her sister ship Saguenay positioned themselves in the southwest corner near the international boundary which runs down the middle of the strait.

The unauthorized presence of the Oshawa, said Mr. McKenzie, forced the Skeena to

Experts Lured By Quebec Pay

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government was warned Thursday that large numbers of its professional workers are taking positions with the Quebec government at higher salaries.

Dr. C. E. Dionne of Quebec City told the annual meeting here of the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada that in recent months more than 50 have joined various Quebec government departments.

"If this movement continues, the situation will become a serious one for the federal government," said Dr. Dionne, supervising inspector in Quebec district for the federal agriculture department's fruit and vegetable division.

Dr. Dionne's statements were contained in a report on 1961 activities of the Quebec branch of the national institute, which represents some 6,000 professional government employees.

He said the Quebec branch was disappointed by recent salary increases for federal professional workers ranging up to $1,080 a year. The institute itself had also protested that the increases were inadequate for top government jobs in professional fields.

French Planes Intervene In Algerian Gun Battle

ALGIERS (AP)—War planes and artillery went into action on the Tunisian-Algerian frontier Thursday while French and Algerian rebel leaders met in France, striving to work out a cease-fire in the 7½-year Algerian rebellion.

Rocket-firing French bombers intervened in a roaring artillery duel between Algerian rebels and French troops on the border where thousands of cannon and mortar shells have been fired since the cease-fire negotiators met in Evian, France.

French Army headquarters confirmed the aerial action and said Thursday night "normal operational activity continues along the frontier."

The French said the artillery duel was set off by a desire of the rebel army based in Tunisia, a Moslem nation backing the Algerian drive for independence, to show it is still a valid military force.

The rebels were reported to have opened up with field guns and mortars a few hours [illegible]

Public Getting Restless

Lynch Threats Rumble As Police Hunt Blasters

NELSON (CP)—Squads of RCMP investigators worked round the clock Thursday checking out tips and new leads in the bombing of a power pylon as the partially crippled industry of the Kootenays took steps to get back to normal operations.

Police spokesmen said a provincial government offer of a $10,000-a-head reward for conviction of the power line blasters had resulted in numerous tips to the more than 100 RCMP officers working on the newest and most far-reaching acts of Kootenay terrorism.

The bombing of the 366-foot steel power pylon with three plastic wrapped charged Tuesday night, sent the tower plastic wrapped charges Tues- Kootenay Lake. Its three vital power lines stretching two miles across the lake snapped, forcing power-short industry to close down or cut back operations.

The latest blast is laid by police to members of the fanatical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect. More than 80 of their membership now are under charge or already convicted—to prison terms ranging up to 28 years—for acts against the community.

It's Civil War

At a public meeting here last night residents urged government action varying from martial law to sterilization of male saboteurs.

Some 150 businessmen, housewives, students, loggers, miners and professional men agreed that civil war exists in the Kootenays and that RCMP methods to suppress violence have been taxed to the limit.

Throughout the meeting, reporters noted a feeling of bitter reprisal against the Sons.

But Mayor T. S. Shorthouse advised caution.

"None of us wants to be associated with mob rule," he said. "We want to keep our heads."

One man exploded after the discussions: "All we do is talk, talk, talk—they better get the militia in here by Saturday. Some of the boys are going to drink Saturday night and then watch out Krestova."

Drastic Measures

Krestova, a shacktown about 20 miles west of here, is the Sons' stronghold.

Ald. B. C. Affleck called for the most drastic measures against terrorism — including martial law, armed guards, criminal code changes, and sterilization.

He said war veterans should be armed with shotguns, with orders to shoot on sight at night. Around important installations he suggested burglar alarms, police dogs, barbed wire, and trip wires.

If deemed necessary by two justices of the Supreme Court of Canada, twice convicted saboteurs should be sterilized, he said.

"My methods are unconventional," Ald. Affleck said, "but nowhere in this country does there seem to be any conventional way of dealing with them."

A motion, that a state of emergency exists, and a call for the East and West Kootenay to be put under a state of emergency allowing use of

Starvation Follows Wild Storm

NEW YORK (AP)—Tides dropped off Thursday but boiling seas continued to batter the East Coast in the aftermath of the worst recorded winter storm ever to strike the seaboard. The federal government declared the scene of multi-million-dollar destruction a major disaster area.

The action by the small business administration made the states of North Carolina, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and New York eligible for low-interest, long term loans to rebuild storm-ravaged communities.

FOOD RUSHED

Estimates of damage ran far above $100,000,000.

Meanwhile, starvation and pestilence menaced survivors amid the ruins of their homes. The agricultural department in Washington rushed surplus food supplies to hungry storm victims. Drinking water was precious in many areas.

MORE VICTIMS?

The death roll from nature's three-day rampage stood at 35. It was feared that receding flood waters might uncover more drowning victims.

Many communities that tasted the storm's destruction estimated the fury of its wind and wave exceeded that of the full-fledged hurricanes of other years. Hitherto, the hurricane, spawned in tropic seas, has been regarded as the fiercest of all storms in these latitudes.

HUGE WAVES

Ships at sea continued to feel the after effects of the storm, which swept in Tuesday with snow gales and left behind high winds, 40-foot waves and 10-foot tides.

Tides fell off during the day in many places to about three feet above normal. However, flood waters made fresh inroads, inundating parts of Philadelphia and spreading three feet of water in Annapolis, Md.

HOTELS HIT

The fury of the storm was felt as far south as Florida, where the resort area's gold coast was beset by towering tides from Palm Beach to Miami Beach. Accompanying the destructive water was unusually cold weather—a low of 31 degrees in the Miami area.

Many plush Miami Beach hotels such as the Fontainebleau, Americana and Eden Roc reported damage to cabanas, and Collins Avenue, running almost the length of the beach, was closed in six places by flood waters.

EVACUATED

Wallops Island, Va., site of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's multi-million dollar rocket facility, was evacuated and damage was reported extensive.

Tanker Crew Saved

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—The Liberian tanker Gem, wrenched by heavy seas, broke apart in the Atlantic Thursday but in hazardous rescue operations all but one of her crew of 35 was saved.

The New York-bound luxury cruise ship Victoria rescued seven crew members from the tanker's severed bow and navy destroyers rescued 27 from her wallowing stern.

The 501-foot tanker snapped in two 110 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Heavy Gales Hit Coasts In Europe

LONDON (Reuters)—Roaring gales, some of them churning up 50-foot waves, hit British, French and Irish coasts Thursday in the second day of severe storms.

The waves cut water and electricity supplies to the little Britanny peninsula of Quiberon.

The gales reached about 95 miles and hour as they raged along France's Atlantic and Channel coasts.

The storms also struck the southern coast of Ireland

Doll's House Tragedy

Death and destruction hit Delaware's biggest resort, Rehoboth Beach, in the wake of a savage storm that ripped open rooms at Hotel Henlopen from ground to roof, making it look like an open-sided doll's house. Estimated damage reached millions of dollars. At least seven persons were counted dead from impact of furious waters and winds. — (AP Photofax)

Terrorism Debate Quashed

OTTAWA (CP)—Terrorism in the Kootenays brought an unsuccessful move in the Commons Thursday for emergency debate on the need for federal assistance to British Columbia law enforcement authorities.

In a rare display of bipartisan solidarity, CCF-New Democratic Party House Leader H. W. Herridge and Progressive Conservative member Murray McFarlane urged the House to suspend regular business in order to discuss an "extremely serious situation." The CCF-NDP chieftain said affairs had reached the stage of near civil war.

NOT URGENT

Mr. Herridge represents the riding of Kootenay West and Mr. McFarlane sits for Kootenay East. Mr. McFarlane seconded the Herridge motion.

Speaker Roland Michener rejected the motion on grounds its sponsors had not established that the debate subject was urgent.

LENGTHY PROBLEM

[illegible] and other unlawful acts in the Kootenays have been a problem "for a long time," said Mr. Michener, though he conceded that the recent outbreak has been particularly serious.

Justice Minister Fulton, who also comes from interior British Columbia — Kamloops riding — argued against the motion.

He said that under parliamentary rules the "definite matter of urgent public importance" on which a member may move for a special debate must involve the administrative responsibility of the government.

He'll Choose Heavenly Who's Who

By PETER BRUTON

There's only one social register Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi wants to be entered in—and that's the "social register of Heaven."

* * *

This was Mr. Gaglardi's reply yesterday after Liberal leader Ray Perrault disclosed that the minister had spent $25 of the public's cash so that he and his wife could be listed with the Social Register of Canada.

What's more, Mr. Perrault's digging in the public accounts committee showed that Mr. Gaglardi had spent an additional $36 so he could be listed in "Who's Who in Canada" as well as six pounds six shillings for a copy of Burke's Peerage.

"Is that all you've got on Gaglardi?" asked Health Minister Eric Martin. "I don't care what he bought as long as it wasn't 'Lady Chatterley's Lover.'"

Waldo Skillings (SC—Victoria) charged that Mr. Perrault had been scraping the bottom of the barrel.

And NDP-CCF leader Robert Strachan told Mr. Gaglardi: "You'd have been better to spend the money on a copy of Dun and Bradstreet to check on bankrupt contractors."

Mr. Gaglardi gladly explained why the books had been bought.

"It was all my secretary's fault," he said. "She bought these things. She thought they were necessary equipment, for the whole department."

* * *

The minister added that his copy of the Social Register didn't contain his name, anyway, and he will not be subscribing again.

Out in the hallway he stopped reporters.

"The only social register I want to be in is the social register of heaven," he explained.

Wins Cheque, Plaque

Loyal Non-Smoker Gets His Reward

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—In the summer of 1938, 17-year-old William Powell made a bet of $5 with his father Eric Powell that he would not become a "tobacco-addict" before he reached the age of 40.

Now, the father, living in Victoria, has sent his son in Duncan a cheque with a plaque for his 40th birthday.

DON'T COUNT

Living at Maple Bay 24 years ago father and son discussed the pros and cons of smoking, and when the former, a persistent pipe smoker, claimed "Sure, you'll soon be starting smoking," the latter replied "No, I won't."

Junior tried hard not to violate his pledge and he says the 20 cigarets he smoked during the past two decades do not count for he never became "addicted to the stuff."

TWICE TEMPTED

Twice he was tempted during his army career from 1941 until 1946 in France, Belgium and Holland and today he is glad he didn't start.

Now the father of one boy and three daughters, he says he will advise rather than compel them not to smoke when they grow up. As far as grown-ups are concerned Mr. Powell feels "It's everyone's own business."

HE'S DIPLOMATIC

The presistent non-smoker and his non-smoking wife, Dorothy, have friends who indulge in the habit but it does not bother the couple in the least. As for women smokers Mr. Powell says diplomatically, "I prefer women not to smoke."

A Boy Scout since 1935, he is now a district scoutmaster in the Cowichan Valley and he agrees his non-smoking habit might be a good example.

The $5 cheque Junior received from Powell Senior was accompanied by a plaque reading: "William James Kershaw Powell, whereas it has been heretofore decreed that abstinence from the use of tobacco for 40 years merits recognition, this plaque is herewith presented."

It all depends upon the turn of the weather as to whether this weekend will see terrific steelhead fishing, or rivers in such full freshet they will be impossible to fish.

Most rivers now are too low and too clear for the best steelheading. But the snow is melting slowly. Frost at nights has been stopping a too-fast runoff. A little rain has been helping.

If that keeps up, the rivers should be perfect for steelheading. If heavy rains come and melt the snow too quickly, the rivers will become in full flood and too cloudy and muddy for fishing. In that event stay home and get your tackle and boat equipment in shape for summer and spring fishing.

The bridge has been repaired at Port Renfrew and entry may again be made by the west coast road from Jordan River.

Last weekend the local fly fishermen at Port Renfrew were hauling trout up to two pounds from the ditch and slough alongside the road just past the Deering Bridge. The rivers were low, but there was rain there Wednesday and they were rising slowly.

* * *

The Cowichan has been giving up quite a few steelhead from the bar below the Silver Bridge right up through the Riverbottom area to Skutz Falls. Snow ploughs have been at work along the Riverbottom Road on both sides of the washout, but along the riverbanks snow has been knee deep and is melting only slowly.

Bill Vaux and George Syrotuk have been getting the steelies from the Cowichan consistently this week and Ed Mould has been picking up some trout in the Cowichan.

Mid-Island rivers—the Qualicums and Englishman—have been low, but there are steelhead in them and they are rising slowly and should be perfect for the weekend. In the Albernis streams have been too low for fishing, but Taylor River, the heads of Taylor and Two River Arms on Sproat Lake are ripe for sea-run cutthroats.

Courtenay district rivers have been giving some good steelheading and in the Campbell River area the Gold and the Bear River have been good, but there is no public access to the Gold River area.

In the Sooke area, Kemp Lake should be a good bet for fly fishermen.

* * *

Herring fishing on the Gorge hasn't been good yet, but they have been getting a few tides. Dropping tides in mid-day haven't helped the fishermen.

Ling cod fishing is now open again, and those who aren't having much luck with salmon should try for some of the lings, which are plentiful and easy to catch at this time of year.

Salmon fishing off the Victoria, Oak Bay and Sooke waterfronts hasn't been good, but persistent fishermen like Charlie Guignet, who fishes off Oak Bay, are still picking up their share.

* * *

Saanich Inlet fishing hasn't been hot, but enough effort will produce fish. Doug Dye picked up a 10-pounder and an eight-pounder in his favorite Tod Inlet waters on Saturday.

Jim Gilbert and George Alexander limited Saturday night on jacks up to 4½ pounds at the Deep Hole and down deep, 150 to 250 feet and planer.

Gilbert has been getting jacks regularly in the Quarry Bay to Deep Hole waters.

A few jacksprings and spring grilse are being taken very deep around the Stone House and there are bluebacks jumping from Goldstream right up to Bamberton and Senanus Island, with the big concentration in the lower part of Finlayson Arm. These blues may still be caught on bucktail flies, but fishing for them is just about as frustrating as fishing for Coho in Cowichan Bay.

* * *

Brant season is over with less than 50 brant being shot as far as we can determine. Sixteen hunters were out at Sidney Spit on the weekend and bagged four brant Saturday and six on Sunday. A few brant, probably no more than 20, were bagged in the Parksville-Qualicum area at the weekend and the middle of last week.

On Monday, a flock of about 80 brant flew over the Sooke area, but they were just out of gun range.

Now the season is over, the brant, as usual, will start appearing in large numbers at a great many Island beaches.

News Leak May Hurt Spokane

Montreal Wants Canuck Club

By BRUCE McLEAN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Montreal Canadiens are ready to take over Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League in a deal which would include an option to buy the club.

A spokesman for five Vancouver business men said Thursday the National Hockey League team is tied in with the group in a proposal to supply players and a coach for the Canucks starting next season.

Lumberman L. L. G. Bentley told a press conference he initiated the deal in talks last January with Senator Hartland de M. Molson, Canadiens' president, and Frank Selke, managing director.

"The whole thing is still in a preliminary stage," he said. "But if things work out, we will be making an offer to the Pacific National Exhibition (owners of the Canucks) early in May."

He said the basic idea was for the Canadiens and the Vancouver group to share ownership of the Canucks on a 50-50 basis.

WAIT FOR PURCHASE

Initially the PNE would hold the club's WHL franchise until the NHL team and the group of five were ready to make an outright purchase.

"The difficulty right now is that we don't think the team is worth the $150,000 which the taxpayers of Vancouver paid for it," says Mr. Bentley.

The PNE is a civic body which operates the Vancouver Forum, the Canucks' home arena, and adjacent city fair grounds.

Associated with Mr. Bentley in the deal are his son, Peter, businessman Ronald Cliff, department store president C. N. Woodward and banker H. M. MacDougall.

Mr. Bentley said the group had hoped to withhold news of the proposal because of Montreal's current player tie-up with the Spokane Comets, another WHL club.

But word of the deal leaked out earlier Thursday forcing the group to make a full disclosure, he said.

PNE president Thomas Fyfe said the group has made no formal offer for the Canucks but that it had been discussed officially.

The Canucks, 17 games out of a playoff spot in the league's Northern Division, have been having a poor year at the ticket office.

Attendance for 31 home games this season totals 62,270 and will drop below 100,000 for the whole season, one of the few times it has dipped to this level in the Canucks' 16 years as a professional and amateur team.

Mr. Fyfe said directors would also be considering four other offers to buy the club at the end of the season.

They include separate bids of at least $100,000 from Art Edwards, a Long Beach, Calif., millionaire, and former Vancouver mayor Fred Hume.

Mekilok Finally Hits Stride In Fourth Season in WHL

Blossoming a bit later than Montreal Canadiens had expected, Spokane-centreman Max Mekilok is currently leading the individual point race in the Western Hockey League with 83 points.

Now 26 and playing his fourth WHL season, Mekilok has 32 goals and 51 assists. But his lead is only two points. Another centre, Calgary's Norm Johnson, has a league-leading total of 58 assists and 23 goals. And Johnson has one more game to play than Mekilok.

In third place is San Francisco-winger Bob Solinger, 37 years old and a professional for 15 seasons. Solinger is having his best-ever season with 27 goals and 51 assists for 78 points.

Only a point behind is Portland-winger Tom McVie, who has proved beyond doubt that he can score without Guyle Fielder as his centre.

McVie has a league-leading 44 goals as well as 33 assists.

Spokane-rookie Connie Madigan leads in penalties with 150 minutes and Seattle-veteran Al Millar leads goalkeepers with a 3.04 goals-against average for the 49 games he has played.

Blackouts, Headaches Followed Attack—Fan

SEATTLE (AP) — Bill S. Carr, 37, Seattle hockey fan, testified Thursday in his $30,000 damage suit that he has suffered blackouts and bad headaches since an altercation last year with a Spokane player.

Carr told a Superior Court jury of five women and seven men he was struck from behind by Colin Kilburn, of the Spokane Western Hockey League club, as he was walking with his wife out of the Civic Ice Arena lobby Jan. 15, 1961.

He said he was beaten unconscious. The incident occurred after a game between Seattle and Spokane.

Also named in the suit with Kilburn are Roy McBride, manager of the Spokane Comets, and the Spokane and Seattle hockey clubs.

Carr contends McBride failed to do anything while the altercation was going on, and the Seattle club did not provide proper protection in the arena.

Kilburn, who was not present when the trial opened late Wednesday, said after the ruckus that Carr struck him first.

Young Scientists Prepare for Fair

Hours of spare time work have been put into this 500,000-volt Van de Graaf generator by Ronald Porter, 14, of Lansdowne Junior High School. The entry will be shown at the annual science fair.

One of the exhibits to be entered in Colquitz Junior High School's science fair to be held later this month, is a model beaver house, built by Dorothy Muir, 12, 485 Obed, and Wendy Palfrey, 13, 4200 Glanford. The exhibit was also made in the girls' spare time.

Close examination is given by Jim Perry, 14, of Oak Bay Junior High School to his home-built electric furnace. School board officials are still undecided about allowing fair exhibits to be operated by students for safety reasons.—(Colonist photos by Ted Harris.)

Shrum Fails To Allay Shift Fears

City council's fears that B.C. Power Commission might shift its employees to Vancouver soon were not allayed yesterday by a note from Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the B.C. Electric Co.

SHIFT RUMORED

Council asked Mayor R. B. Wilson to write to Dr. Shrum recently, after rumors that the BCPC would shift its 500 employees to Vancouver when the commission merges with the B.C. Electric later this year. The commission's annual payroll is more than $1,000,000 a year.

'CONSIDERATION'

"So far as I am concerned, I wish to assure you that the points you have raised will be given very careful consideration," Dr. Shrum wrote.

"It will certainly be desirable to avoid any unnecessary transfers of personnel or disruption of their personal affairs," he said.

Celebration Society Approved

City council yesterday gave preliminary approval to a bylaw officially appointing six persons to the newly-formed Victoria Centennial Celebrations Society.

The bylaw will be finally adopted at the next meeting of council, in two weeks.

Persons named were P. D. P. Holmes, Douglas Fletcher, O. Glyn Jones, J. K. Nesbitt, Clifford Rutledge and Sam Lane.

The society has assumed the work of conducting the city's centennial celebrations from the informal committee which was doing the work.

DeMolay Week Proclamation

A proclamation declaring next week DeMolay Week will be signed by Mayor R. B. Wilson.

The move is in honor of the International boys' organization now celebrating its 43rd year. Victoria chapter has about 80 members.

Disease Threat

Pollution Danger Growing

By TED SHACKLEFORD

The provincial government is exposing British Columbia residents to a grave danger from contaminated water and the spreading of typhoid and hepatitis, according to Walter O'Keefe, B.C. manager of the Canadian Plumbing and Mechanical Contractors' Association.

"Greater Victoria has an adequate plumbing code, but surrounding areas have none," he said in an interview.

"It's no use having a 'clean' spot surrounded by a much larger 'dirty' spot—the clean spot gets contaminated by the highly infectious diseases from the surrounding area."

HARBOR HIT

Mr. O'Keefe pointed to Vancouver's inner harbor as an example of how pollution can occur.

"Vancouver's harbor is the largest cesspool in Canada," he said. "If all the contagious germs in the inlet each day were the size of oranges they would make a mountain the size of Mount Seymour (4,758 feet above the level of the harbor)."

Vancouver and federal authorities are spending $17,000,000 for a sewage plant, to remove the threat of pollution from English Bay and other beaches, he said, but North Vancouver is still permitted to dump raw sewage into the harbor.

Diseases which can result from poor plumbing include hepatitis, typhoid and enteric dysentery, Mr. O'Keefee said.

ALARMING RATE

"Hepatitis is spreading through British Columbia at an alarming rate," he said. "In the first eight months of 1961 there were 998 cases of the disease in the province.

"We have reason to believe it has tripled over the past seven months.

"The highest incidence of hepatitis appears in areas where there is no strict plumbing code or a lack of enforcement.

"In the northern Okanagan where there is no code, there were 21 cases in the first eight months of 1961. Since then, 100 additional cases have been reported."

Plan to Pay Less Move to Pay More

Offered a chance to pay less toward the cost of intermunicipal projects in future than it has paid in the past, city council yesterday initiated a move which could result in the city having to pay more.

NEW PLAN

In the past the city has paid 46.4 per cent of all intermunicipal costs. This was based on the city's population, which was estimated at 46.4 per cent of the population of Greater Victoria.

Under a new cost-sharing plan recommended to city council by Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee, the city's share would drop to 43.53 per cent.

The new plan is partly based on population, partly on taxable assessment values.

The assessment figures used in preparing the new plan do not include the value of federal property which is exempt from taxation.

But Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow yesterday suggested that the value of federal property should be included.

SHARE INCREASED

Federal property in Victoria includes the post office building. Esquimalt includes HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard. There is little or no federal property in Saanich and Oak Bay.

Effect of Ald. Edgelow's suggestion could be to increase the city's share over the 43.5 per cent suggested by the intermunicipal committee.

Scoreboard Blacked Out

Lansdowne Junior High School's new basketball scoreboard will have to be left in the closet until school board officials decide if it is safe or not.

The complex board, built by science students, has not been approved by the Canadian Standards Association, and so cannot be operated in the school.

School officials will be asked to have the provincial inspector of electrical energy check it.

Commission Adamant

Broadside Launched At High-Rise Plans

A Calgary company's plans to build a $1,000,000 high-rise apartment building on Douglas Street, opposite Thunderbird Park, were under heavy attack yesterday.

City council's advisory planning commission registered wholesale opposition to the plan in a lengthy report to yesterday's meeting of council.

ON-OFF DEAL

Company involved is Chartered Investments Ltd., which was recently entangled in an on-again-off-again deal with the city over purchase of a site on Kingston Street.

Chartered Investments is going ahead with construction of a high-rise apartment on Michigan Street and had planned to spread costs by constructing the threatened high-rise at the same time.

SIX POINTS

Council's advisory planning commission has objected to the proposed construction on six main points, but aldermen are not all convinced that the commission is right. The six points:

● Victoria's high-rise zone is in James Bay and is capable of handling the city's needs for up to 20 years.

● Basic plan in creating a high-rise zone was to develop James Bay.

● Any move to "extend" the zone will upset the program of construction.

● The property is too small for a building of the size proposed by the company.

● An unusual breakdown in the city's high-rise bylaw is making it temporarily possible for council to give permission to erect the building.

● Construction of the building is not "in the best visual interests" of the area.

'NO PROGRAM'

"Nonsense," one alderman snorted after the meeting. "They said nothing about being outside the high-rise area when they approved the Spencer apartment plan off Cook Street.

"Besides, what program of construction will be upset? We don't have a program of construction."

The Spencer plan was to construct a 21-storey super-luxury apartment block near Smith's Hill Reservoir. It has been stalled by the promoters for some time.

The planning commission's recommendation has been sent to the city town planning and zoning committee for study and report back to city council.

29 Drivers Charged For Lacking Plates

Twenty-nine Victoria motorists have been charged with failing to obtain 1962 licence plates for their cars before the deadline last week.

It was learned yesterday that the tardy motorists will pay fines ranging up to $25 for the oversight.

Rejection Deplored

Alderman Demands Art Gallery Grant

Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee should face up to its responsibilities and make a grant to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, Ald. A. W. Toone said yesterday.

BID REJECTED

He made the comment at city council meeting when told the intermunicipal committee had rejected an application for a grant by the art gallery, and referred it to the individual municipalities.

"If there is any worthy cause in the community it is the art gallery, and it should be handled on an intermunicipal basis, Mayor R. B. Wilson commented.

'LACK OF INTEREST'

He said the main reason the intermunicipal committee refused to make a grant was "a lack of interest in culture."

"If there is a lack of interest in culture this is all the more reason for the committee to face up to its responsibilities," Ald. Toone said.

The question of a grant for the art gallery was referred to city finance committee.

Stout Drinker Dethrones Our Beer-Loving Andy

* * *

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

* * *

TRUE LIFE DRAMA: Most Colonist readers are acquainted with Andy Capp, that curious little Englishman who cavorts around our pages quaffing copious quantities of beer.

Andy, of course, is a cartoon character and one could be excused in thinking that a good deal of literary licence surrounds his abnormal capacity for downing suds.

Thanks to London's Daily Express, we can disclose that cartoon Andy is a piker compared with real-life "Twenty Pint Cecil."

Street trader Cecil Osborn of Wimbledon, England, drinks beer for breakfast, lunch and dinner—20 pints a day, all told.

"I've been drinking the stuff since I was five years old," he told an Express reporter. "My father started giving me stout then."

But Wimbledon magistrates refused to believe Cecil when he claimed: "Beer is my staple diet—it has no effect on me."

They fined him £30 and banned him from driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Replied Cecil: "I just don't understand it."

"I go to Covent Garden every morning and before I leave home I have two or three pints for breakfast. I never eat anything," he said. "When I get to the Garden I have another few pints. The pubs are open up there early in the morning. Then I have a few pints for lunch. Sometimes I have a sandwich or two but nothing very fancy. Beer is more food than food itself."

And when he goes home, 36-year-old Cecil takes beer with him to while away the evening.

His wife Lillian said: "I don't mind him drinking—he never misbehaves. But I won't buy beer for him. Honestly, it's impossible trying to keep this house clear of empties.

"I find them all over the house," she said. "I don't mind them in the kitchen and living room—but I draw a line at the bedroom. Mind you, if I let him, he'd drink there as well."

Andy Capp, move over. . . .

SUCCESS STORY: Plaudits to the Victoria Kiwanis Club.

As a result of the column item here yesterday the club has agreed to donate a plaque commemorating the visit of USS Porter here in September of 1937. The ship brought U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt on a visit to the city.

The plaque was the last needed to complete the "parade of ships" project along the Causeway embankment.

MENTALITY QUESTIONED: When the opposition ranks began giving Health Minister Eric Martin a bad time yesterday, the minister threatened: "I'm quite prepared to have you all certified."

He could do it, too.

Mr. Martin is also minister in charge of mental health services in B.C.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: Friend of ours is quite disturbed at the labels on canned clams in local stores.

They are marketed as butter clams, but the pictures show the more delicious little-neck clams.

Our friend, who is a conservationist, rushed home to check his books because he thought his identification must be wrong, but came away more convinced than ever that the wrong type clams are pictured on the cans.

He still doesn't know what kind of clam is in the tins. His wife says they can't afford to buy a tin when they can dig clams any old time down at the beach!

'Problems Studied'

General Foulkes to Stand For City Liberal Nomination

Gen. Charles Foulkes, one-time chief of the Canadian general staff, announced yesterday he will stand for nomination as Liberal candidate in the Victoria federal constituency.

The party will hold its nominating convention here March 26.

In a statement, Gen. Foulkes said his 14 years of service as a senior official in Ottawa had given him a first-hand opportunity of observing "the complexity of the problems facing parliament and the government."

He added: "Issues, ranging from social security to defence are increasing in scope and intensity and adequate solutions are more difficult to find. I feel my long experience and proven ability should enable me to make a considerable contribution to parliament and to government."

Gen. Foulkes rose from the rank of captain to lieutenant-general during the Second World War and—at 42—was appointed chief of the general staff.

Youngest officer ever appointed to the post, he continued to serve in that capacity until 1951, when he was appointed first chairman of chiefs of staff. There he remained until he asked to be retired in 1960.

He was born in England in 1903 and was commissioned in the Royal Canadian Regiment in 1926. He went overseas with the 1st Canadian Infantry Division and led the 2nd Division in the invasion of France.

He took over the 2nd Canadian Corps in September, 1944, and fought the battle of Walcheren. He was appointed chief of staff in August, 1945, and guided the army through demobilization.

Lynch Threat In Kootenays

NELSON (CP)—Squads of RCMP investigators worked round the clock Thursday checking out tips and new leads in the bombing of a power pylon as the partially crippled industry of the Kootenays took steps to get back to normal operations.

Police spokesmen said a provincial government offer of a $10,000-a-head reward for conviction of the power line blasters had resulted in numerous tips to the more than 100 RCMP officers working on the newest and most far-reaching acts of Kootenay terrorism.

The bombing of the 386-foot steel power pylon with three plastic wrapped charges Tuesday night, sent the tower plunging to the shores of Kootenay Lake. Its three vital power lines stretching two miles across the lake snapped, forcing power-short industry to close down or cut back operations.

The latest blast is laid by police to members of the fanatical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect. More than 80 of their membership now are under charge or already convicted—to prison terms ranging up to 28 years—for acts against the community.

It's Civil War

At a public meeting here last night residents urged government action varying from martial law to sterilization of male saboteurs.

Some 150 businessmen, housewives, students, loggers, miners and professional men agreed that civil war exists in the Kootenays and that RCMP methods to suppress violence have been taxed to the limit.

Throughout the meeting, reporters noted a feeling of bitter reprisal against the Sons.

But Mayor T. S. Shorthouse advised caution.

"None of us wants to be associated with mob rule," he said. "We want to keep our heads."

One man exploded after the discussions: "All we do is talk, talk, talk—they better get the militia in here by Saturday. Some of the boys are going to drink Saturday night and then watch out Krestova."

Drastic Measures

Krestova, a shacktown about 30 miles west of here, is the Sons' stronghold.

Ald. B. C. Affleck called for the most drastic measures against terrorism — including martial law, armed guards, criminal code changes, and sterilization.

He said war veterans should be armed with shotguns, with orders to shoot on sight at night. Around important installations he suggested burglar alarms, police dogs, barbed wire, and trip wires.

If deemed necessary by two justices of the Supreme Court of Canada, twice convicted saboteurs should be sterilized, he said.

"My methods are unconventional," Ald. Affleck said, "but nowhere in this country does there seem to be any conventional way of dealing with them."

A motion, that a state of emergency exists, and a call for the East and West Kootenay to be put under a state of emergency allowing use of

Army Officer?

Green Admits Recall

'Violation' In Indochina

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green admitted under sharp opposition questioning Thursday that at least one Canadian serving in Indochina with the international truce commissions has been brought home for violating Canadian law.

Outside the Commons, a source said the case involved the acceptance of money by an army officer to smuggle narcotics into Canada. The source said that possibly other army officers are involved.

It is understood that Canadians in Viet Nam have frequently been approached with offers ranging up to $50,000 to take home with them at the end of their year's tour of duty packages of narcotics for delivery to a contact in Canada.

DECLINED TO REPLY

An army spokesman declined to reply to any questions on the matters, referring them all to the external affairs department.

The spokesman said he knew, however, that there has been no court martial in connection with any such case.

Mr. Green said in the Commons that it would "not be in the public interest to go any further."

REGIER QUESTION

He was asked by Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) whether any Canadians have been brought home from Indochina for other than normal reasons such as leave.

Mr. Regier asked whether any report has ever been issued by the government "as to why a Canadian official was murdered in this area?"

The apparent reference was to the stabbing murder of A. E. L. Cannon in Saigon, South Viet Nam, April 12, 1957. He was serving with the external affairs department and was a member of the Viet Nam truce commission.

NO REPORT

Mr. Green said: "I have no report on that particular incident."

Mr. Regier: "Have any Canadians, either from the department of national defence, been sent home for reasons other than the normal reasons of leave, furlough, etc.? If so, for

Forced to Move West, Court Told

Unauthorized Ship Invaded Target Area of Skeena

By IAN STREET

An unauthorized vessel entered the firing area in Juan de Fuca Strait while HMCS Skeena and other warships were carrying out firing exercises Jan. 29, a naval court martial was told yesterday.

Cmdr. Richard H. Leir, skipper of the Skeena, is charged with negligence and "an act to the prejudice of good order and discipline" resulting from the incident which rained shell fragments on the logging community of Clallam Bay, Wash.

He pleaded innocent to the charges.

IN FIRING AREA

The five-man court was told that on Jan. 29, during the firing exercises the federal government ship Oshawa entered the firing area and subsequently ignored a radio message to return to the safety of Jordan River.

Defence counsel Lloyd McKenzie put the circumstances of the alleged incident to witnesses in hypothetical form. But he assured the court that evidence to back up his contention fully will be entered by the defence.

SOUTHWEST CORNER

The "hypothetical incident" outlined by Mr. McKenzie stemmed from the presence of two destroyer-escorts and two frigates carrying out simultaneous surface and anti-aircraft shoots in the 10-mile wide strait.

The frigates carried out a surface shoot at the eastern end of the firing area while Skeena and her sister ship Saguenay positioned themselves in the southwest corner near the international boundary which runs down the middle of the strait.

The unauthorized presence of the Oshawa, said Mr. McKenzie, forced the Skeena to

29 Miners Dead In German Blast

HEESSEN, Germany (UPI)—A giant explosion rocked a coal mine here today and authorities feared a high casualty toll.

First reports said at least 29 miners were believed killed and many more injured in the blast.

ENTRANCE SEALED

The explosion occurred in the Sachsen mine located near this town in northwestern Germany. Fire brigades immediately sealed the entrance to the mine.

News of the disaster spread fast, and anxious relatives of the miners working below the surface quickly began crowding outside the iron gates of the mine.

SECOND DISASTER

It was the second disastrous coal mine explosion in West Germany in recent weeks. On Feb. 7 a methane gas explosion in the Luisenthal mine at Voelklinger killed 298 miners.

Starvation Follows Wild Storm

NEW YORK (AP)—Tides dropped off Thursday but boiling seas continued to batter the East Coast in the aftermath of the worst recorded winter storm ever to strike the seaboard. The federal government declared the scene of multi-million-dollar destruction a major disaster area.

The action by the small business administration made the states of North Carolina, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and New York eligible for low-interest, long term loans to rebuild storm-ravaged communities.

FOOD RUSHED

Estimates of damage ran far above $100,000,000.

Meanwhile, starvation and pestilence menaced survivors amid the ruins of their homes. The agricultural department in Washington rushed surplus food supplies to hungry storm victims. Drinking water was precious in many areas.

MORE VICTIMS?

The death roll from nature's three-day rampage stood at 35. It was feared that receding flood waters might uncover more drowning victims.

Many communities that tasted the storm's destruction estimated the fury of its wind and wave exceeded that of the full-fledged hurricanes of other years. Hitherto, the hurricane, spawned in tropic seas, has been regarded as the fiercest of all storms in these latitudes.

Ships at sea continued to feel the after effects of the storm, which swept in Tuesday with snow and gales and left behind 40-foot waves and 10-foot tides.

Tides fell off during the day in many places to about three feet above normal. However, flood waters made fresh inroads, inundating parts of Philadelphia and spreading three feet of water in Annapolis, Md.

HOTELS HIT

The fury of the storm was felt as far south as Florida, where the resort area's gold coast was buffeted by towering tides from Palm Beach to Miami Beach. Accompanying the destructive water was unusually cold weather—a low of 31 degrees in the Miami area.

Many plush Miami Beach hotels such as the Fontainebleau, Americana and Eden Roc reported damage to cabanas, and Collins Avenue, running almost the length of the beach, was closed in six places by flood waters.

EVACUATED

Wallops Island, Va., site of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's multi-million dollar rocket facility, was evacuated and damage was reported extensive.

Tanker Crew Saved

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—The Liberian tanker Gen. wrenched by heavy seas, broke apart in the Atlantic Thursday but in hazardous rescue operations all but one of her crew of 35 was saved.

The New York-bound luxury cruise ship Victoria rescued seven crew members from the tanker's severed bow and navy destroyers rescued 27 from her wallowing stern.

The 501-foot tanker snapped in two 110 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Heavy Gales Hit Coasts In Europe

LONDON (Reuters)—Roaring gales, some of them churning up 50-foot waves, hit British, French and Irish coasts Thursday in the second day of severe storms.

The waves cut water and electricity supplies to the little Britanny peninsula of Quiberon.

The gales reached about 95 miles an hour as they raged along France's Atlantic and Channel coasts.

The storms also struck the southern coast of Ireland.

French Planes Intervene In Algerian Gun Battle

ALGIERS (AP)—War planes and artillery went into action on the Tunisian-Algerian frontier Thursday while French and Algerian rebel leaders met in France, striving to work out a cease-fire in the 7½-year Algerian rebellion.

Rocket-firing French bombers intervened in a roaring artillery duel between Algerian rebels and French troops on the border where thousands of cannon and mortar shells have been fired since the cease-fire negotiators met in Evian, France.

French Army headquarters confirmed the aerial action and said Thursday night "normal operational activity continues along the frontier."

The French said the artillery duel was set off by a desire of the rebel army based in Tunisia, to show it is still a valid military force.

The rebels were reported to have opened up with field guns and mortars a few hours be-

Doll's House Tragedy

Death and destruction hit Delaware's biggest resort, Rehoboth Beach, in the wake of a savage storm that ripped open rooms at Hotel Henlopen from ground to roof, making it look like an open-sided doll's house. Estimated damage reached millions of dollars. At least seven persons were counted dead from impact of furious waters and winds. — (AP Photofax)

Terrorism Debate Quashed

OTTAWA (CP)—Terrorism in the Kootenays brought an unsuccessful move in the Commons Thursday for emergency debate on the need for federal assistance to British Columbia law enforcement authorities.

In a rare display of bipartisan solidarity, CCF-New Democratic Party House leader H. W. Herridge and Progressive Conservative member Murray McFarlane urged the House to suspend regular business in order to discuss an "extremely serious situation." The CCF-NDP chieftain said affairs had reached the stage of near civil war.

NOT URGENT

Mr. Herridge represents the riding of Kootenay West and Mr. McFarlane sits for Kootenay East. Mr. McFarlane seconded the Herridge motion.

Speaker Roland Michener rejected the motion on grounds its sponsors had not established that the debate subject was urgent.

LENGTHY PROBLEM

Bombings and other unlawful acts in the Kootenays have been a problem "for a long time," said Mr. Michener, though he conceded that the recent outbreak has been particularly serious.

Justice Minister Fulton, who also comes from interior British Columbia — Kamloops riding — argued against the motion.

He said that under parliamentary rules the "definite matter of urgent public importance" on which a member may move for a special debate must involve the administrative responsibility of the government.

He'll Choose Heavenly Who's Who

By PETER BRUTON

There's only one social register Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi wants to be entered in—and that's the "social register of Heaven."

* * *

This was Mr. Gaglardi's reply yesterday after Liberal leader Ray Perrault disclosed that the minister had spent $25 of the public's cash so that he and his wife could be listed with the Social Register of Canada.

What's more, Mr. Perrault's digging in the public accounts committee showed that Mr. Gaglardi had spent an additional $36 so he could be listed in Who's Who in Canada as well as six pounds six shillings for a copy of Burke's Peerage.

"Is that all you've got on Gaglardi?" asked Health Minister Eric Martin. "I don't care what he bought as long as it wasn't Lady Chatterley's Lover."

Waldo Skillings (SC—Victoria) charged that Mr. Perrault had been scraping the bottom of the barrel.

And NDP-CCF leader Robert Strachan told Mr. Gaglardi: "You'd have been better to spend the money on a copy of Dun and Bradstreet to check on bankrupt contractors."

Mr. Gaglardi gladly explained why the books had been bought.

"It was all my secretary's fault," he said. "She bought these things. She thought they were necessary equipment, for the whole department."

The minister added that his copy of the Social Register didn't contain his name, anyway, and he will not be subscribing again.

Out in the hallway he stopped reporters.

"The only social register I want to be in is the social register of heaven," he explained.
